Congress to Act In Giving Enforcement Agents Greater Powers

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
For International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—A tightening of dry law enforcement, through legislation giving prohibition officials greater powers in their war on bootleggers and rum runners, was in prospect in Congress today as the outcome of a series of investigations into activities of the prohibition bureau.

Two Senate committees today studied declarations that prohibition could not be "properly" enforced under the present Volstead act. One, coming from Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon league, won endorsement from "dry" leaders who previously opposed any tampering with the Volstead law.

New Laws Urged

The judiciary committee, while closing its public hearings on the Cramton bill—which would create a separate prohibition bureau—gave consideration to Wheeler's statement that all the present "unsatisfactory situation in prohibition enforcement" was due to defects in the Volstead act. He urged new legislation to stamp out illegal use of industrial alcohol, charging that millions of barrels were now being used by bootleggers with the government helpless to halt the illegal trade.

Dry leaders meanwhile pointed to the recent act of Congress in appropriating $11,000,000 for the prohibition bureau—the largest sum given it since its creation—as demonstrating a purpose to provide bone dry regulations.

BANKER GIVES $1250 AFTER FREED AT PRISON

Russell Davis Given Money At Hotel In Topeka, Is Charge Made Today

BULLETIN

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 10.—Tinkham Veale, prosecuting attorney of Shawnee county, told International News Service this morning that he would take no action on charges made by a Kansas City newspaper against Russell Davis, son of Governor Jonathan M. Davis, until a complaint was made. He said that no complaint had been made this morning.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 10.—"My son told me yesterday afternoon as we were going to supper what happened in the hotel. He told me that he had been given some money by Fred W. Pollman, whom I had pardoned. He said that Pollman offered him the money. He never asked for it."

This was the statement this morning over the long distance telephone from Topeka of Governor Davis, accused in a copyrighted story in the Kansas City Journal-Post today of having pardoned Pollman, convicted banker, after Pollman had given Russell Davis, the governor's son, $1250 in the National hotel at Topeka yesterday afternoon.

"If Pollman says that I received money for pardoning Glenn A. Davis," said the governor today, "it is a direct lie."

The Journal-Post said money had been used in connection with the pardon of Glenn A. Davis, serving a life sentence for complicity in a murder. Governor Davis reiterated a statement made last night that the charges are "a political frame-up."

Son Got Money

"I knew nothing about the thing until my son told me as we were going home yesterday," said the governor. "My son did not bring me any money yesterday."

"Did your son Russell get any money?" the governor was asked.

"Yes, he told me he did."

"It has been said that he solicited it. Did he ask for it?"

"He told me he was helping Pollman through friendship. Pollman offered him the money, he said."

Governor Davis said he did not know what steps he would take. He said he would probably make a statement later in the day.

Friend of Governor

"Was Pollman a friend of yours?" he was asked.

"Well, he was an acquaintance; he came from my section of the country."

Davis said Pollman had first approached him about a pardon last July and that the matter had gone through the usual channels.

Russell Davis has made no statement so far. He is confined to his room this morning, following his experience of yesterday. It is expected he will make a formal statement this afternoon.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Words were spilled in the Assembly of the Legislature at Sacramento over the child labor amendment prior to the vote on the joint resolution introduced by Assemblyman Frank Weller of Glendale.

Farm bloc representatives—and there is such a thing as a "farm bloc" in the Legislature—were most desperate in their desire for a delay with a view to convincing their constituents that the federal amendment is safe and sane legislation.

As the writer has pointed out, the issue of nationalizing children delves into fundamentals of political organization. The charge of Bolshevism was openly made in debate and only the good humor of the assemblyman, perhaps, was the saving grace of the day.

Charles Duell, Chico editor, expressed the sentiment of the majority seeking early ratification when he said the situation could be summarized in the advertising slogan, "Eventually—why not now."

Attending the Sacramento Rotary club brought the writer some ideas which will be passed along to Glendale's many service clubs.

The song leader uses a word chart hung on the wall above the piano which is in plain sight of the club members. It saves books, and also insures their attention to his movements.

The Sacramento Rotary club has issued a roster of members containing their pictures which makes every member easily recognized when met. Visitors are called before the speaker's table for introduction in order that the "Whiskerinoes" may give their guests the "once over."

Introduction of bills in the Legislature is proving new sources of copy for the news writers, but as yet very little controversial matter has been presented other than the child labor amendment.

Reapportionment, however, is going to provide one of the warmest fights of the session, it is revealed, from comments dropped by members of both the San Francisco and southern delegation.

The relative strength of the farmers' bloc, as showed Thursday at a maximum of 25, gives hope to those favoring reapportionment that "cow county" opposition will not be as great as feared.

ONE-ACT PLAY ON PROGRAM AT SCHOOL

Five Students In Dramatic Class to Give Comedy At Variety Show

By VELMA BOLTON
Written for The Evening News.

One of the chief attractions of the annual variety show, to be held at the Glendale Union High school, Broadway auditorium, January 15 and 16, is the one-act play which is presented by Harold L. Brewster's dramatic classes.

This year, the play to be given is a farcical comedy by Harold Owen, entitled "A Little Fowl Play." The cast as chosen by Mr. Brewster is as follows:

Gilbert Warren, Wesley Pomeroy.
Sybil Warren, Velma Bolton.
Mr. Tolbooth, Dixon Fannon.
Mary, the maid, Marie Griggs.
Boy, Jack Ward.

The scene is laid in Gilbert Warren's study. He is a young author, with considerable ability but a small purse, steadily growing smaller. The family is striving to keep up appearances upon Gilbert's meager earnings. Things have come to such straits, however, that the butcher has refused to send any more meat without payment of the bill, and the evening meal looks doubtful.

Meal By Mistake

The timely advent of a four-pound chicken left at the Warren apartment by mistake furnishes them with the desired sustenance, but gets them into trouble later. Tolbooth is a comical Englishman, who comes to the Warren apartment looking for the chicken which belongs to him, and he is discovered to be the fiction reader for the publishing firm considering Gilbert's latest book. He warmly recommends the book to his firm, and they "all live happy ever afterwards."

The play is one of the cleverest of its type, and is sure to be one of the biggest factors in drawing a record-breaking crowd to the variety show.

Seniors' Orchestra And Singer on Bill

By MARION MORRISON
Written for The Evening News.

In a unique setting of draped plush curtains and soft colored lights, the talents of the senior class will be displayed. Their act in the variety show, which will take place next Thursday and Friday nights, will include a five-piece orchestra and a singer.

This same orchestra, with the exception of Ralph Eckles, saxophonist, represented the class last year. Ralph Eckles has proven his ability in the past year by getting a position in the U. S. C. band.

Arthur Cressey and Henry Grace, drummer and pianist, played during the summer at the "Egyptian Village." Clifford Walcott and Norman Nelson, banjoist and saxophonist, have gained recognition by playing in orchestras in both Hollywood and Los Angeles. Norman also played in the U. S. C. band this fall.

Baritone Soloist

Wesley Pomeroy, baritone, accompanied by the orchestra will sing several of the popular song hits.

The boys have been practising every spare moment that they can get together and have developed excellent harmony. Last year the orchestra was encored time after time; with the effects of the settings and the year of experience gained by the musicians, this year's act will be even a greater "hit" than that of last year.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Jan. 10.—Hillhaven, the Hollywood of Tujunga, is to be exploited by Twining & Myers, Glendale realtors, who have bought 200 acres in the tract, which comprises the portion remaining unsold to individual owners. The sale was completed in December and the new owners have announced that they will begin a sales campaign immediately.

The California Home Extension Co., M. V. Hartranft, president, was the former owner of Hillhaven and the Gem of Tujunga tract. The unsold portions of the latter have also been taken over by Twining & Myers. The California Home Extension Co., according to Mr. Hartranft, desires to discontinue the handling of individual lots for the time and devote more time to larger parcels of land. The new owners of the two tracts plan to develop a colony of homes for business people and will conduct their sales on the small installment plan. Headquarters in Tujunga will be located at 101 East Michigan avenue, near the Garden of the Moon park.

Monday will be the next meeting date of the Tujunga Valley Realty board, following a vacation over the holidays.

A get-together dinner was given Thursday night at Legion hall by Post 250, American Legion, for the purpose of recruiting new members. Members of the Ladies' est in Legion work among the old members. Mtmbers of the Ladies' Auxiliary served a turkey dinner and entertainment was furnished by Pete Desjardin's radio receiving set. Several new memberships are expected as a result of the gathering.

Cooking odors may be kept from the house by the use of a newly perfected cabinet in which the stove is placed and the fumes carried away through a special ventilator at the top.

COUNTY WANTS ECONOMY

SANTA BARBARA, Jan. 10.—Economy in county government will be the chief topic before the board of supervisors at a special meeting on January 19, according to members of the board. Because of the low condition of some of the funds the board has called this meeting to discuss methods of curtailing expenses and for keeping more accurate records of county finances.

LARGEST TURNIP EXHIBITED

SANTA MARIA, Jan. 10.—The largest turnip ever grown in Santa Barbara county, weighing eighteen pounds and measuring thirty-three inches in circumference, is on exhibit in Santa Maria. It was grown on the farm of James Dothoroil. It is as good as the smaller varieties and the meat is firm and comparatively free from puff.

SEEK COUNTY SITE

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 10.—The city of Colton is seeking to unite all cities of the county behind a proposal to donate a free site to the Board of Supervisors for the erection of the proposed new courthouse, it has become known. Mayor Evans of Colton is getting in personal touch with civic heads of cities in the county and President Robbins of the Colton Chamber of Commerce has written the chambers of various cities urging them to use their influence to have the site proffered by the city of Colton accepted by the board.

BOOST COLORADO PROJECT

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 10.—San Bernardino should give serious consideration to the Colorado river aqueduct project, not because of immediate need for additional water supply here, but because of the certain future growth of the community, when additional water will be needed, Mayor S. W. McNabb declared before a meeting of the Lions club.

GHOST HAS DISAPPEARED

SANTA CLARA, Jan. 10.—Publicity or prayer has allayed the Santos Ghost. The spirits that for seven nights have appeared at precisely the same hour to Adeline and John Santos failed to appear at all as hundreds of curious persons milled about outside the Santos home and waited for the manifestation. The Santos family and its Portuguese friends say that it was not afraid of publicity, that ghosts are not afraid of individuals or crowds, but that the collective prayer of 200 Portuguese religious enthusiasts proved sufficient to exercise the ghost.

SUNLAND NOTES

SUNLAND, Jan. 10.—The annual election meeting of the Valley Center Improvement league resulted in the election of the following officrs: A. D. Kirshman, president; C. H. Bloodgood, vice-president; L. A. Wakefield, treasurer; J. Todd Murrie, secretary. Thirty members were present to participate in the balloting.

A report by Earl Newmire was to the effect that he had presented the petitions asking the county supervisors to call an election in Sunland for the purpose of voting on incorporating a city of the sixth class, and that the hearing for the decision of the supervisors will be held Monday, January 19. J. Todd Murrie was appointed to represent the league in Boy Scout activities. Rev. W. E. Smith, Scoutmaster of the Sunland troop, was present and spoke of the activities of the troop in getting started as an organization. Athel trees will be planted along the state highway, Michigan avenue, by the league as soon as the rains increase. Permission for this improvement was secured from the authorities last year, but too late to set the trees out.

G. L. Nottage and C. C. Nicholson have been appointed to represent the Sunland Chamber of Commerce in the Service club, organized to function as a charitable relief distributing agent in the Tujunga-Sunland district. Permanent organization of this club will be effected. A constitution will be adopted, officers elected and regular meetings held once each month, probably n the first Monday evening in the month.

A Boy Scout meeting was held Friday night at the Sunland Baptist church. A knot tying contest was one of the features of the evening.

Mrs. Nielson, wife of the janitor of the church, has been taken to Los Angeles for medical treatment.

Special music will be played at both Sunday services at the Baptist church, the subjects of the pastor's sermons will be "Two Kinds of Children" and "The Faith That Saves." Rev. W. E. Smith will preach both morning and evening.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Jan. 10.—The class of residences built in Tujunga during the year just closed was of a decidedly higher standard than of any previous year. The temporary cabins and makeshift bungalows erected by the early residents are largely a thing of the past and many of these have been replaced by substantial and attractive homes. In addition to this replacement practically all the new buildings are of standard architecture, with the consequence that many fine homesites are being developed in the many attractive hillside and canyon tracts. Artistic taste and skill inspired by the topographical beauty of the Tujunga section is displayed in the design and construction of most homes, which are designed to harmonize with the natural beauty of the hills.

An increase in population of 20 per cent for the year, computed on a basis of three persons to each water meter in use, is credited to Tujunga. This computation gives a total of over 5,000 people now living in Tujunga.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Antoinette Amanda Zoellner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zoellner, to Earl Frank Chapman, realtor, of Sunland. Miss Zoellner is first violinist of the famous Zoellner quartet, which toured the United States and Europe and is well known to every music lover of Southern California. The quartet played in many of the muic centers of Europe and was decorated by the mother of King Albert of Belgium. The quartet has also played in all the larger cities of the United States and Canada. The wedding is announced for June and the prospective bride and groom expect to make their home in Sunland.

Arthur M. Loomis of Huntington Park was the principal speaker scheduled for the dinner given Tuesday night by the Men's Brotherhood of the Tujunga Community Methodist church.

Peru will have a natural hygiene institute and funds for construction of the building will be obtained from fines for infringement of the sanitation and pharmaceutical laws and other sources.

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, Jan. 10.—The City Trustees have denied all protests against construction of the second unit of the sewer system, and ordered in the work. This action was taken on the supposition that the first unit, now nearing completion, is not an experiment but a sound engineering project worthy of expansion into additional territory.

The trustees have named A. J. Rose as street superintendent, to take the place of R. R. Scott, who recently resigned. As Mr. Rose was previously city engineer, this action combines the two offices under one executive, as in Glendale and other cities.

An Optimist club is in process of organization in Burbank. It is being sponsored by the Pasadena club. P. A. Hennessy, of the Los Angeles Optimist club, spoke before a gathering of the local chapter, at a luncheon meeting held Thursday noon at the Garden hall, Benmar Hills.

The following are among the officers for 1925 elected at the annual parish meeting of St. John's Episcopal church:

For the bishop's committee—C. B. Lane, warden; Lieut. A. S. Pearson, treasurer; C. A. Blackburn, clerk, and the following members: W. H. Stroud, G. D. O'Hara, E. L. Mansell, W. E. Dunlap, V. P. Minter, R. F. Rendell, Mrs. J. T. Strang, Miss Octavia Lesueur.

For delegates to the diocesan convention—C. B. Lane, W. E. Dunlap, Charles B. Wood, J. T. Strang, W. H. Stroud.

Silas Lachner and Elbert Hulf of Jasper, Indiana, have left here after spending several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Kunkel of 485 Tujunga avenue. The guests are old time friends of Mr. Kunkel.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Hale, of Colfax, Washington, were guests recently at the home of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Hale of 236 Tujunga avenue.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, Jan. 10.—Election of officers for the coming year of the Women's Guild of St. Luke of the Mountains Episcopal church occupied the attention of the members at the annual meeting. Dr. Renison, of Eagle Rock, gave the opening prayer. Mrs. E. Scoles, secretary, gave her yearly report in the form of a history. Mrs. C. A. Haskins gave a detailed treasurer's report for the guild and the church collections.

Deaconess Grebe, who has charge of the Sunday school, reported many details of the schools working among which were the items of $25 paid into the bishop's picture fund by the children and $21 to the missionary fund. There are now enrolled in the school twenty-two girls, nineteen boys and twelve on the cradle roll. Mrs. Seymour Thomas gave an account of the buying of the chairs to furnish the church, also told of the receipt of a letter from Mrs. Eric N. Fowler of La Canada and Washington, D. C., who presented the tile roof to the church as a Christmas gift.

Dr. Renison gave a short talk in which he complimented the guild for the splendid work they had done throughout the past year in making the church a possibility, stating that Bishop Johnson had set aside March as the day for the dedication of the church as it was expected everything would be in readiness at that time. The Altar Society of the diocese have offered a gift of $50 for an altar which was gratefully accepted by the guild. Dr. Renison will personally see to its installing, also to the finishing of the interior of the church proper.

Those who attended the tea given at the home of John Stevenson McGroarty in Tujunga Thursday afternoon were Mesdames E. Scoles, A. C. Haskins, C. Tillinghast, E. Wattell, Mark S. Collins, Robert Wildhack, Seymour Thomas, K. Brookes, Mary B. Darrow and also Seymour Thomas.

NEW ENGLAND RESIDENTS FORM CLUB

Dr. E. L. Fish Temporary President at Meeting Held Last Night

Glendale New Englanders from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Connecticut enjoyed an informal social affair last night at First Congregational church, selecting temporary officers and an organization committee to further plans for a permanent New England society.

Arthur Clark Terrill had the happy inspiration to get local people from "down east" together, and with Rev. Charles M. Calderwood and others, plans were carried out with such success that a permanent organization will result. A count of the states represented showed that there were five people from Maine, six from New Hampshire, one from Vermont, twenty-eight from Massachusetts and nine from Connecticut.

Massachusetts carried off further honors when Mrs. Helen Hanscom spelled everyone down in a spelling match, in which the most difficult words in the vocabulary of Harvard and Yale were used for "stickers."

Select Dr. Fish

Dr. E. L. Fish was chosen temporary president; Mr. Terrill, temporary vice president, and F. D. Warner, temporary secretary. New Englanders living or visiting in Glendale desirous of affiliating with the new organization are asked to send their names to Mr. Warner at 320 East Chestnut street.

Entertainment features last night were: Piano number, "The Awakening of the Lion" (Kontski) by Mrs. William A. Hartmann; vocal solos, "Serenade" (Tosti), "The Rosary" (Nevin), Mrs. E. L. Fisk, accompanied by Mrs. Hartmann; reading, "A Tourist Booster," by Mrs. Chestly; reading, "I'm From Boston," by Rev. C. M. Calderwood; readings, "Aunt Doleful Consoles a Sick Friend," and "Willie's Hearing,' Miss Martha Cox. Mr. Terrill also told experiences during a residence of several years in China.

The temporary officers and organization committee is to meet next Tuesday night at the church to make plans for the permanent club.

Smith, who succeeded G. H. King as defense counsel.

Weather Man Tells of Rain In Water Measure

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 10.—One inch of rainfall represents one hundred tons of water deposited on each acre from the skies, according to officials of the local weather bureau. Thus the farmer who tills a ten-acre place, if the seasonal rainfall is fifteen inches, receives from celestial sources no less than 15,000 tons of moisture during the year. Similarly, said Weather Observer R. N. Taylor, one inch of rainfall equally deposited on a square mile measures 2,323,200 cubic feet.

RANKS THIN AS VETERANS ASSEMBLE

Cherished Memories of War Days Are Recalled as Officers Installed

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff.

Thinner in ranks by eight than a year ago but with their eyes still bright, their step still firm and in their hearts the same brave spirit of that memorable march to the sea, the "Boys in Blue" of the General N. P. Banks post, Grand Army of the Republic, yesterday installed officers for 1925, with impressive ceremonies. Installation of officers for the Women's Relief Corps followed.

Installation took place at the G. A. R. hall, 902 South Glendale avenue. The installing officer was Comrade T. M. Barrett, past commander of the local post, its present patriotic instructor and adjutant of the Southern California Veterans' association. Comrade R. N. Taylor was officer of the day.

One of the most impressive features of the historic ceremonies was the presence of Comrade Philo Case, "the drummer boy of Shiloh," with his daughter, Mrs. J. Brown, and his grand daughter, Mrs. R. C. Jacobsen, constituting a fife and drum corps that played several numbers, vividly recalling to the old veterans the days of their supreme struggles to preserve the nation. Comrade Case is now a Glendale resident, having recently bought a home at 540 Riverdale drive.

Officers of Post

The installation exercises were witnessed by one of the largest gatherings that ever assembled at the hall. The day was fair and the warm Southern California sunshine streamed in the windows, glinting on the mass of flags and lighting up the many treasured pictures that adorn the walls of the building.

The following G. A. R. officers were installed: W. G. Collins, post commander; U. H. Emick, senior vice-commander; W. S. Tilton, junior vice-commander; C. H. Clark, adjutant; T. A. Robinson, quartermaster; W. G. Cowan, surgeon; Rev. Charles R. Norton, chaplain; R. N. Taylor, officer of the day; T. M. Barrett, patriotic instructor; S. W. Hammon, officer of the guard; G. T. Dorrence, sergeant major; G. V. Sanford, quartermaster sergeant. Representatives S. Houdyshel, A. E. Morse and J. H. Rouse were named to attend the annual department encampment at Santa Monica, with Wilson Catt, S. W. Hammon and D. R. Dennison as alternates. Comrade T. C. Fuller was the retiring commander.

After a luncheon served by the women of the corps, installation of 1925 officers of the Women's Relief Corps took place. Mrs. Alma Hill, past president of the Park corps, was installing officer. Her staff, all from the Ocean Park corps, comprised: Mrs. Jennie Gregg, conductor, and Mrs. Ada Jacobsen, Mrs. Edith Ferguson, Mrs. Bessie Hinderer and Mrs. Clara Eagler, color bearers.

Mrs. Mary Bennett, who was reelected president, delivered the following address of acceptance:

"When I accepted the presidency of the Women's Relief Corps a year ago, I felt unequal to the tasks of the office, but my officers have stood by me. I have conducted all but one meeting of the corps, that being when I attended the convention at San Diego. I have visited several corps, had charge of a picnic, attended the encampment at Santa Monica in September, and called on members when sick. I regret to report in this connection that the local corps has lost six members during the past year.

"The corps has been represented in all patriotic parades during the year. Again I thank my officers for their help in making my work a success. You have seen fit to again confer this high honor on me. I ask the same loving help and cooperation during 1925 that was extended throughout 1924."

Officers of Corps

On behalf of the local corps, Mrs. Flora Pixley presented Mrs. Bennett with a gift of a cut glass bowl. Several other gifts were exchanged. Philo Case again favored with his fife and drum corps, and Frank Booth sang. Later Comrade Case told how he beat out that "long roll" that snowy dawn at Shiloh—and many a comrade's eyes grew bright with memory as he talked.

Following is the list of Women's Relief Corps officers installed: Mary Bennett, president; Hettie Lawson, senior vice-president; Anna Page, junior vice-president; Flora Pixley, secretary; Catherine Corey, treasurer; Jennie Tincher, chaplain; Adelaide Chappius, conductor; Cathleen Ketchum, assistant conductor; Josie La Franchi, guard; Anna Patterson, assistant guard; Lenora Skelton, patriotic instructor; Julina Hayes, press correspondent, and Etta Quinn, Emma Simmons, Nina Richards and Mrs. Bull, color bearers.

Rev. C. R. Norton wound up the program with a rapid-fire monologue in his usual happy vein, sending the comrades and sisters home in most cheerful spirits, declaring that this was one of the best joint installations ever held in the G. A. R. hall.

C. C. OFFICIALS TO SPEAK AT ATWATER

Closer Relationship Between Glendale And District to Be Fostered at Meeting of Improvement Body

A closer relationship between the city of Glendale and Atwater Park will be knitted through the efforts of the Atwater Community Improvement association at the next meeting of the association, when officers of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce will be invited to speak.

Co-operation between the two municipalities is believed to be the keynote to their success in attaining improvement of highway conditions in the southern part of Glendale and in Atwater park, according to P. E. Lipscomb, treasurer, and other officers of the improvement association.

Continuation of Glendale boulevard straight across the Los Angeles river to connect with Riverside drive, with a second main road branching off and running along the Pacific Electric tressle into Los Angeles proper, will be taken up at a meeting of the Glendale Citizens' Traffic commission, Glendale city officials, Chamber of Commerce directors and Miller McClintock, Clarence T. Snethen and James E. Larson, Los Angeles traffic experts. It is the belief of members of the Glendale commission that completion of such a project would do much to solve the highway problems of this district.

Try to Enter Store

Burglars last night tried to enter a store at the corner of Brand boulevard and Atwater street, in the Atwater Park section of Los Angeles. J. J. Glenn, a passing motorist, reported to Glendale police headquarters that two men were prying open the front door. Sergeant J. W. Henderson and Officer W. E. Hagi were sent to investigate and found the door half off. The thieves, however, had made their escape, being frightened off before they succeeded in gaining entrance. The matter was reported to the Lincoln Heights division of the Los Angeles police department.

NAMES LOCATION OF CIVIC CENTER

Dr. William Mabry Suggests Site Now Occupied by Colorado School

Editor The Evening News:
Some time since Glendale voters indulged in a contest regarding a civic center. The general subject seems to be dying a natural death—a misfortune, because a civic center—divested of Utopian luxuries, certainly is needed in this rapidly growing community. In the near future these same voters again are to contest regarding bonds for school purposes, also certainly needed.

For some time an idea has persisted that both necessities could be obtained to advantage or at least materially aided by the city's securing from the school board the Colorado school site for a civic center.

This plot occupies 320 feet on Colorado and Elk and 295 feet on Louise street, an area of 94,400 square feet.

The advantages offered by this idea to the city and to the school board are:

1. Ample in area for legitimate governmental purposes.

2. No valuable buildings to destroy, no necessity to waste money in remodeling old structures, as those now on the grounds are obsolete one story wooden structures long since ready for the junk pile.

3. Practically 100 per cent of the funds derived by the school board from the sale of this property would be available for new construction because of the small value of the present plant and the fact that it must soon be replaced.

Attendance Small

4. Colorado school has comparatively a small attendance and of young children easily and much better cared for at less central and less congested locations.

Probably the money received for this plot would provide in other less valuable locations both sites and modern buildings for double the present attendance—a net saving in bonds and school funds.

5. A civic center at the Colorado site would cause the minimum of interference with the development and extension of Glendale's business district as there are already enough non-business projects in the immediate neighborhood to kill it for business purposes.

It is close enough in to meet all city business requirements with the added elements of wide thoroughfares, a large non-congested area nearby for parking space, great accessibility from all directions and a conspicuous location.

Retain Harvard Site

6. Suitable buildings for civic purposes could be planned according to present requirements and added to as occasion arose without economic loss as the present City Hall and buildings and sites could profitably be retained for operative departments which do not come extensively into contact with the public. Decentralization to a certain degree is desirable.

7. The adjacent Harvard High school site meanwhile would be utilized to capacity as long as the present insufficiency of school space continues. As this condition is relieved and the time arrives to house high school students elsewhere—that part of the site needed for business district expansion could be disposed of at maximum financial advantage to the school board and at the same time such Colorado frontage retained as may be needed for night schools and special teaching which demand a central and downtown location. This plant and grounds wou'd enhance the civic center effect as well as prove an economic saving on all sides.

RADIO SETS ARE MADE BY CONCERN

Local Factory Produces New Two-Tube Receiver of Exceptional Value

A factory for the manufacture of radio receiving sets, doing a national business and selling principally to jobbers and distributors, is now among Glendale's industries. A. E. Antunez and J. E. O'Donnell, operating under the firm name of Antunez & O'Donnell, make the Ando reflex set at 632 North Louise street and have a retail branch at 800 East Colorado street.

The instrument is operated from either an ordinary light socket or from a storage battery. There is no hum or foreign interference when operated from the light circuit and Mr. Antunez says their two-tube set is equal to the ordinary five-tube radio and is efficient up to 1500 miles on loud speaker volume. The price is much lower than that of many sets and 100 sets were shipped to San Francisco jobbers within the past few weeks.

Mr. Antunez has been a radio engineer three years and previous to that was for years with the Marconi Wireless Co., and has many radio inventions to his credit. Three Glendale distributors, R. Gibson, Globe Builders, Supply Co., and Blackburn Radio Co., handle the product locally with other distributors all over the state. Represntatives are now being arranged for in Arizona and New Mexico.

DOLL CRAZE OLD

Among some of the tribes of Mexico years ago, the unmarried women carried a doll to tell the world they were on the lookout for a beau and husband. It is a remnant of this custom that is responsible for the doll craze that has been felt in Europe and United States since the war, it is stated.

In Italy an inventor has built a cycle-airship, of a gas balloon, which has a bicycle as a fusilage. By means of pedaling the rider directs the course of the balloon while the gas bag supports it.

LLOYD WILSON NAMED HEAD OF SHRINE

Annual Meeting and Election Of Officers for 1925 Held Last Night

Lloyd H. Wilson, Glendale real estate operator, was elected president of the Glendale Shrine club at the annual meeting and election of officers last night. The affair was in the form of a big open meeting of members and visiting Shriners at the Egyptian Village cafe. The Shriners sat down to dinner at 6:30 o'clock with Percy J. Hayselden, outgoing president, presiding as toastmaster. Following the repast there were vaudeville entertainment numbers prior to the opening of the business meeting.

The full list of new officers chosen to lead the Glendale Shrine club during 1925 includes Mr. Wilson, president; William N. McMillan, vice-president, and Dr. F. R. Gartley, secretary-treasurer. The new officers spoke briefly, thanking the club for the honor bestowed upon them and pledging their best efforts for a successful administration. Officers whose terms expired last night are Mr Hayselden, president; Ed F. Heiser, vice-president, and Charles F. Hahn, secretary-treasurer.

Glendale Shrine club will take an active part in entertaining the 250,000 Shriners from all over America who will convene in Los Angeles in June when the annual pilgrimage of the Imperial Council takes place there. Plans for Glendale's part in the big Shrine celebration were discussed at last night's meeting.

WAR!

A Series of Seven Articles on War: With a local-civic objective by "Mr. A. Studious Veteran."

Article Three

On July 20, 1917, when Secretary Baker blindfolded, drew number 258 from a big glass bowl, the great selective service draft began.

Of the more than ten million names provided, four and one half million men were inducted into the American army. Along with them went hundreds of thousands of women and men as nurses, surgeons, line and staff officers, service order and Red Cross operatives, etc.

Hundreds of thousands more unable to go, performed myriads of arduous duties at home and abroad which were as necessary as fighting and without which fighting could not be done.

Those who performed active military service at home or abroad probably received a more generous lesson in war realities and those who actually fought and suffered therefrom the greatest lesson of all. Yet, strange as it may seem, home camp casualties were greater than those in the war areas.

To one who has passed through the hardships and dangers in every part of the game, it is an easy matter to decide and believe that each and every service man or woman without distinction in rank, branch of service or location is entitled to the same degree of honor and credit. If anything the "man who stopped a bullet with his name on it" was luckier than he who lingered through pneumonia or meningitis. In the last analysis each and every one was a "pawn" in the game where he might become a "king." He was placed by his government where his country needed him—his part was to do his bit there and there only.

In whatever position the pawn was placed, he learned some part of the great tragedy of war and collectively all learned at first hand what the war was about and what they gained.

They know that country and self were freed from the menace of repression and suppression; they know they preserved for us and our allies a "place in the sun," a place to live and be able to live. They know also they saved democracy from autocracy, helped in the survival of the fittest, preserved freedom and mental development for another period of progress.

This mass of men and women also know what it all cost. They know that those at home, though in less danger and stress, bore even a greater burden than active participants in the excitement and turmoil—that without their morale and help forces in the field could not exist.

They know of their own sufferings from privations and disease, from gas and wounds, of their loss in time, money and opportunity. They know well the terrible burden laid upon all the country by profiteering and fraud, and the menace of alien races. None knows better likewise the bitter folly of unpreparedness and the selective draft. Never can they forget the grewsome toll exacted in life and treasure because of misguided zeal, forcing raw troops illy prepared and equipped into the inferno of war. Nor can they forget how the selective draft allowed more men to escape service than served; how wealth and influence profited during and after the war, whereas Germany with the "Universal Draft" of every resource in the empire fought as an equalized unit.

All these lessons have firmly fixed in their minds and souls the necessity and determination to continue serving their country and homes as never before. What stronger or more logical force could exist for such service than an association of those who faced a great emergency and emerged victorious?

This resume applies not only to the generation which served during the World War but it exemplifies the lessons of all our wars. The men of the Revolution and Civil War periods are past and unfortunately passing. Those of the Spanish War era are among the nation's motive force of today, but for the future, we must look to the younger generation of the World War to carry on and profit by their great lessons and experiences.

(Article No. 4 Monday)

The "siesta" has for centuries been the privilege of the Spanish citizen, but under the new dictatorship it is said the rest at noonday is mandatory by law. People must quit work and shops close for the noonday rest.

DIRECTORY TO SHOW CITY'S EXPANSION

Compilation Work to Start Within a Few Days; See Gain in Population

Reflecting the growth of the city of Glendale will be the 1925 directory, on which compilation work will be begun shortly by the Glendale Directory Co., publishers of local directories for the last three years. Mr. Fitzgerald, who has the work in charge, is confident that there has been a great increase in residents here.

The directory will comprise the same features as in years past. An accurate canvass of the city is the aim of the publishers. Plans are for having the books ready for distribution about the first of April.

Iowan Wants One

That the new directory will be of wide interest is seen in a letter from Mrs. T. A. Morgan of Menlo, Iowa, who writes to The Glendale Evening News:

"I understand the new city directory for the year 1925 will soon be off the press. I desire one very much, even though I am miles away, back here in the middle west; where the thermometer registers cold, colder, coldest. Please inform me the price of the directory that I may send the necessary sum to have one mailed to me. We read our Glendale Evening News with pleasure. Our family longs for California, and Glendale especially, and waits impatiently for the time our business may be so arranged that we may return to the land of sunshine. This cold weather suits none of us."

DESCRIBES TRIP TO FROZEN EAST

Former Employe The News Encounters Snow and Cold Temperatures

Katherine Caudel, until recently a resident of Glendale and an employe of The Glendale Evening News, writes to The News from her home, 14 Wilbe street, Dayton, Ohio. Her friends in Glendale will be interested to read her letter, printed herewith:

"Have been home just two weeks, and the happy reminiscences of my pleasant moments in dear old California will ne'er be forgotten. Have wished so many times I could be back again in that wonderful land of prosperity, bright sunshine and happy people. Had a delightful trip east. From the fertile orange and lemon groves, vineyards and blooming roses into snow-capped mountains, all were so beautiful and unsurpassed by life's most skilled painting. As the train crept slowly onward into the mountains the thermometer continued on a gradual decline, and when we reached Salt Lake City it was fifteen degrees below.

See Temple Grounds

"During train wait at Salt Lake City, two other parties from Los Angeles and I braved the cold tempests and strolled over the temple grounds. The sun shone brightly on the glistening snow-covered cathedral, a vision equally beautiful as my first view of the sparkling waters of the Pacific. The weather continued cold during our journey on to Chicago, and though the western trains were all running late, our train made up the time, so that I had no difficulty in making connections at Chicago.

"Arrived home the following Monday night, tired but happy, for a happy reunion with my mother and brother. My brother, who is an ensign in the navy, will leave soon on a cruise to China. Mr. Cowan, I want to thank you for the opportunity of serving The Glendale Evening News, and wish for it and all those connected a very prosperous and happy new year. I am hoping to be back again soon in California and will be glad to see you all then."

In one year there were 104 villages that were given mail carrier service and 164 small towns that got city service, according to the report of the postmaster general at Washington. This indicates the steady growth of small communities.

Daily Greeting to News Readers

I CERTAINLY BELIEVE—

In sometimes extending mercy to the merciless.
In giving the spirit of goodwill a fair trial.
That every human soul has some spark of divinity left.
That every immigrant ought to become an American or go back.
That a highway makes a poor place to carry on a courtship.
That a workman ought to be loyal or quit.
In hesitating before calling any man a hypocrite.

TAXING TRUCKS

The truck and bus question as related to other methods of transportation as well as to the building and maintenance of roads has become a real problem and one which the present California Legislature will, in all probability, be called upon to wrestle with.

The truck has become a highly important factor in industry and agriculture and serves many regions not penetrated by the railroads. In fact, trucks are being used by the railroads as feeders in many places. And the truck, both for freight and passenger service, is destined to become increasingly useful.

But there is a growing feeling, not only on the part of the railroads, but of the general public as well, that this class of transportation does not pay its keep. It is responsible for a large share of the wear and tear on the highways and pavements and the tax imposed is by no means adequate to the damage done. For instance, the San Bernardino Sun complains that the people of that county recently voted $1,750,000 for new highways. The people who are taxed for these improvements know that the roads will be worn out long before the bonds are paid, and they know that trucks from the Imperial valley carrying cotton and other produce to the Los Angeles market will help to cause the disintegration of their highways. It is difficult for the people of San Bernardino county to take sufficient interest in Imperial valley growers and their products en route to Los Angeles to build highways for their use.

The truck interests submitted to the voters at the last election an initiative proposal that would have fixed the amount of taxation and fixed it so that it could not be altered except by a two-thirds vote of the legislature. This was in response to the growing sentiment of the people for legislative action. But the act was rejected and the people are expecting the Lgislature to place a tax on trucks commensurate with the damage that they do to highways and pavements.

CALIFORNIA'S BEAUTIES

A good deal is being said about the relative merits of Southern California and Florida as places of residence and as winter resorts. Florida has the advantage of proximity to the eastern business and social centers. A New York or Boston business man can establish a winter home at Palm Beach and take a run up to his office any time it becomes necessary. Repeal of the state income and inheritance tax laws has recently turned all eyes in the direction of that state and added to its lure for people of wealth.

California has an all-the-year-'round climate, and for that reason is more desirable as a place of residence and qualifies as a delightful summer resort.

One who has sojourned in both places says that what California has and Florida has not is beauty of the rarest kind. But he goes on to say that man is rapidly destroying this by hideous road signs and filling stations, municipal camping grounds, tent cities and main streets without a semblance of architectural grace.

California's greatest asset, next to her climate, is her natural beauty, and we are beginning to realize that when we destroy this, California will cease to be attractive. A locality cannot remain in its primitive condition and still be habitable, but where changes are made an effort should be put forth to retain as much as possible of the native beauty of the spot as well as to make the architecture fit in and harmonize with nature rather than to dominate it or clash with it.

An example of this method of handling a naturally picturesque spot and retaining its beauty and grandeur may be seen on the Palos Verdes estate, where those in charge of the project will not permit any improvement that is not approved by the art jury, which is made up of men who are capable, through temperament and experience, of doing this task well.

CANADIANS WOULD STOP SMUGGLING

Those who have been engaged in the business of smuggling liquor from Canada into the United States, it is said, are reducing their overhead by buying articles of merchandise in the United States, smuggling them into Canada on the return trip and selling them at a price about one-third less than that charged by merchants in legitimate trade. This business has grown to such an extent, syndicates have been so completely organized that many big stores and long-established merchants in the eastern provinces have been forced out of business and factories have been compelled to shut down or adopt half-time working schedules.

The traffic in liquor brought into the United States unlawfully has not been considered very seriously by the Canadian or American officials, apparently, but now that business is being affected there is a cry from Canada that the smuggling of merchandise into that country be stopped. And while the officials of both countries along the border are putting an end to the illicit traffic into Canada it ought not to be so very difficult to stop Canadian products coming into this country contrary to law.

ETIQUETTE IN 1838

"One of the most noxious of modern habits is smoking; fortunately, however, fashion has now in a great measure banished it from the presence of the fair sex, consequently it is principally resorted to in the barracks, the guardroom and the streets; and its practice is more especially patronized by soldiers, rakes and shop boys."

No, the above item was not copied from Emily Post's Book of Etiquette, one of the six best sellers of 1924, but from the Gentleman's Pocketbook of Etiquette, published in London in 1838, and in all probability one of the best sellers of that year.

We must confess to ignorance of what Emily Post says about the etiquette of smoking, if she mentions the matter at all, but certain it is that we have come so far from the period when smoking was "banished from the presence of the fair sex" that the fair sex has taken up smoking in self-defense, preferring its smoke first-hand. How the world does progress!

It may be bad taste to laugh out loud, but it's a sure sign of good digestion.

And another way to find the hospital is to cross the street obliquely in the middle of the block.

The Italian House

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Columbia University has recently opened an Italian House.

The purpose is to have a center for promoting good relations between Italy and the United States.

As Ambassador Caetani says:

"Nations in appearance widely different are instead closely connected by cultural factors that often pass unnoticed because not sufficiently emphasized. This is especially true between Italy and the United States."

We often find that we have more ties of kinship with foreign people than we have differences. They feel the same as we do, they are affected by the same pains and joys. They have the same hopes and fears.

Besides this, in the case of Italy we have many points of connection. We are like Siamese Twins, joined at the top. The basis of our literature is essentially Italian.

We are a part of Roman civilization as to our culture, and there is no reason why the American branch, though it be somewhat more distant, should not keep in touch with the Italian branch. As Caetani says, "The capital letters of any book printed in New York today are the same as those printed 2,000 years ago in the Forum. Both Italian and Anglo-Saxon civilizations are offsprings of the intellectual awakening that first sprang forth in Italy after the dark period of the lower Middle Ages."

Any movement that tends to increase and perfect the understanding between the two nations is welcome. And this movement, which is distinctly cultural and has nothing of the sordid in it, is especially to be commended.

We need Italian culture in the United States. We need the Italians' love of beauty, of nature and of music. We need their light-hearted way of looking at things.

The American is a mixture of all races. Although he may be Anglo-Saxon at bottom, he is an omnivorous Anglo-Saxon, and eagerly devours the civilization of other peoples.

We have our Grand Opera house, where music is given largely in Italian, and we need to emphasize the effect of Italian literature upon us. Beside music, Italians have excelled in art, in literature and in invention, and we should gladly take whatever they have to offer for our intellectual pabulum.

The Italian House at Columbia ought to be a center of Italian culture and means whereby the effect of Italian culture shall permeate the United States.

We are not rivals of Italy in any sense, but are co-operating with her in the great work of transferring humanity's interests over from the flesh to the spirit. The Italians have done notable work in culture, and the cultural centers of the United States should be glad to co-operate with them.

The work has the cordial co-operation of President Butler, and of Dr. Gerig, at the head of the Romance department. It should have the support of the entire public, as the influence of Italy that comes to us through it cannot help but do us good.

Horoscope

This should be a fortunate day, according to astrology, for the Sun and Venus are both in benefic aspect.

This is a time to make plans and to promote big projects, for the year is to bring opportunities of far-reaching possibilities.

While this configuration prevails the stars are auspicious for those who seek political recognition or appointments of any sort.

Prosperity and popularity will be enjoyed by the president of the United States and other persons who wield influence over human destinies in the United States.

Congress comes under a planetary government that assures a session of supreme interest, for new leaders are to make good records.

Women are subject to pleasant influences today, making for light-heartedness and confidence in their future.

There is a lucky sign for weddings, and they who make their vows of allegiance to each other under this direction of the stars have the prospect of much financial gain.

Theatres and all who work in them have the promise of much activity all through this season, but there will be little gain for any except experts in any branch of production.

Motion pictures are still subject to rather disturbing and uncertain conditions, but the seers foretell marvelous improvements that will put them on the highest possible artistic level.

One of the signs of the times symbolic of the changing natures of men and women will be the love of color in dress, house decoration and the treatment of public buildings.

Women who desire new positions or promotions should make the best use of this day's opportunities.

Employers are likely to be accessible and able to accede to requests for substantial salaries, while the Sun is in the aspect that marks today.

Achievement in new lines of public work appears to be presaged for American women, but they will receive much criticism.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of an active and successful year. They will be generally fortunate and should have plenty of money.

Children born on this day probably will be keen of mind and determined of will. These subjects of Capricorn generally know how to make the most of all their opportunities.

Says Characters In Child Tales Are Real

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—Was there a "really and truly" Mother Goose?

Mrs. Evelyn Ford Darling, of Los Angeles, says there was, and claims to be the grandniece, eight times removed, of the well-known verse maker.

"Mother Goose was born Elizabeth Foster, and by tracing back my family history I have found she was my great aunt, eight times removed," declares Mrs. Darling.

"She was born in 1665 and in 1693 she married Isaac Ver Goose, member of a Holland Dutch family.

"She was a member of the Old South church in Boston, and died in 1759.

"Mother Hubbard was a real woman and Little Boy Blue was a son of Mrs. Ver Goose."

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

It is an old saying that "human nature is the same the world over." Not only that, but it is universally acknowledged that there is a great conformity among the actions of men in all ages, and that human nature remains still the same, in its principles and operations.

The same motives always produce the same actions: the same events follow from the same causes.

Ambition, avarice, self-love, vanity, friendship, generosity, public spirit: these passions, mixed in various degrees, and distributed throughout society, have been, from the beginning of the world, and still are, the source of all the actions and enterprises which have ever been observed among mankind.

Would you know the sentiments, inclinations and course of life of the Greeks and Romans? Then study the temper and actions of the French and English: you cannot be much mistaken in transferring to the former most of the observations which you have made with regard to the latter.

* * *

With this fact in mind, David Hume observed that mankind is so much the same, in all times and places, that history informs us of nothing new in this particular.

Its chief use, it seemed to him, is only to discover the constant and universal principles of human nature, by showing men in all varieties of circumstances and situations, and furnishing us with materials from which we may form our observations and become acquainted with the regular springs of human action and behavior.

"These records of war, intrigues, factions, and revolutions, are so many collections of experiments, by which the politician or moral philosopher fixes the principles of his science, in the same manner as the physician or natural philosopher becomes acquainted with the nature of plants, minerals, and other external objects, by the experiments which he forms concerning them."

* * *

If a traveler, returning from Europe or South America or Asia, bring us an account of men, wholly different from any with whom we are acquainted; men, who were entirely divested of avarice, ambition, or revenge; who knew no pleasure but friendship, generosity and public spirit; we should immediately, from these circumstances, detect the falsehood and prove him a liar, with the same certainty as if he had stuffed his narration with stories of centaurs and dragons and miracles.

* * *

A uniformity in human motives and actions as well as in the operations of the body—when this lesson is learned we have the key to human nature. Then pretexts and appearances no longer deceive us.

COMMITTEES PREPARING FOR CIVIC DEVELOPMENT!

PROGRAM FOR PROGRESS IS PRESENTED

Various Chairmen Tell of Activities; See Increased Prosperity Here

Chairman of standing committees of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, in selecting their committeemen and outlining their programs for 1925, have stressed the paramount need for cooperation and unified effort on the part of all institutions and organizations in Glendale and a harmonious undivided city.

Following are brief interviews solicted by The Glendale Evening News from a number of the committee chairmen, telling of their contemplated work for the coming year.

DAN KELTY, chairman trade-at-home committee—It is the purpose of this committee to function in every way for the betterment of business for Glendale industries. This includes the merchant, the factory, doctors, contractors, carpenters and all mechanics in Glendale. This means that we will make every effort to get before the people, and encourage them to spend their money here and keep their dollars in Glendale.

To do this, we need the support of every man and woman, and we will welcome any suggestions that might be made for the betterment of this cause.

Bearing in mind the fact that service, good merchandising, fair prices and ample stock are factors in any successful trade-at-home program, the merchants are studying these matters and we are sure that steady improvement will result.

Bearing in mind that a city is known by its stores and business institutions, we look for a more prosperous 1925.

This committee consists of five business men whose whole effort this year will be to bring about this trade-at-home spirit. They are: Dan Kelty, Lyman P. Clark, W. G. Lauderdale, T. D. Watson and Harry G. MacBain.

W. T. JEFFERSON, chairman transportation committee — New developments in the making of greater Glendale inevitably lead to serious transportation problems. These must be met with far-seeing vision, and action must be recommended from an impersonal and unselfish viewpoint. Improvements that give legitimate impetus to the growth of our city should be encouraged in every way, and especially by adequate transportation facilities.

For example, our fine new depots should be connected by direct routes by bus or car lines with the splendid hotel that is fast nearing completion. Every property owner should feel that the Chamber of Commerce functions for his best interests.

All tranportation problems will be discussed not only from the angle of present finances but also with a view to Glendale's needs ten, twenty or fifty years hence. In this way both extravagant ideas and false-economy policies are avoided.

Straightforward, sensible handling of even the most intricate transportation problems will be the order of the day. The natural conflict in various viewpoints will be smoothed out. Already, I am glad to be able to record many evidences of sincere co-operation upon the part of Glendalians. And I feel highly honored that two such well known and highly esteemed citizens as T. W. Watson and Arthur Campbell should agree to serve on the transportation committee.

DR. T. C. YOUNG, chairman membership committee—As chairman of the membership committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, I have spent considerable time selecting this committee because of this reason—we are attempting to select men who have a very large contact throughout the various civic clubs, and business organizations, representing each business and profession in the city of Glendale.

It was necessary to select fifteen sub-committeemen. Each individual sub-committeeman will be expected to appoint five committeemen to work with him, and by this way our assistant secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Lawrence Grady, would be able to receive personal contact with the sub-chairman, and sub-committeemen, and in this way we would be able to do some direct work. In other words, single shooting on each individual, and thereby be able to sell the memberships of the Chamber of Commerce, to the men that need it, and that the Chamber of Commerce needs.

The intensive campaign for memberships has not proven 100 per cent successful because it did not reach the prospective members by personal contact through the membership salesmen. The new committee is organized for the entire year, not for a few weeks or days.

The members who were selected for this committee and approved by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce are: Dr. T. C. Young, Chairman; W. Twining, C. J. Hatz, W. B. Kelly, Dr. Warren Newton, R. F. Kitterman, R. Johnson, D. L. Gregg, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, V. Hollister, R. Bently, Dr. Freisen, Jesse Smith, Dr. C. R. Lusby, H. M. Butts, Rev. C. A. Cole.

O. E. McDOWELL, chairman educational committee—When one hears the name of the Chamber of Commerce mentioned, he is inclined to think of a group of business men who meet from time to time to plan for the financial or industrial advancement of the community. In spite of the fact that the public schools form one of the important factors in the advancement of the community, not even second to industrial advancement, there is still, in most cases, a rather wide gap between the educational interests and the industrial interests. It is the hope of this committee that we may be able to help bridge this gap.

Not more than a week ago I heard a member of our present City Council recite some of the difficulties which had been encountered in connection with the improvement of Sycamore Canon road. I am sure that this little insight into the workings of the City Council left me in a more sympathetic attitude toward that body and its problems. I am one who believes that a large number of the controversies we experience are due to the fact that neither party in the controversy understands the other. If this committee can carry to the teachers of the public schools and others directly interested in educational affairs, a more accurate interpretation of the aims and ideals of the Chamber of Commerce and can bring to the Chamber of Commerce a better understanding of the things for which the educational forces are working, the effort will be decidedly worth while.

In choosing other members for this committee it is our intention to provide for the representation of teachers of the elementary schools, the teachers of the High school and the patrons of both schools, and also to have on the committee several men of affairs in the community not directly connected with the school work. We hope in this way to provide a sort of clearing house for all the interests concerned.

GEORGE F. ORGIBET, chairman Greater Glendale luncheon committee—The Chamber of Commerce greater Glendale luncheons were inaugurated, not only to help keep up the civic spirit of those who labor so unselfishly for the advancement of Glendale, but essentially to draw the man and woman into civic activity who might otherwise hold aloof.

The luncheons so far have been very successful. Aside from the jolly social spirit that prevails, much has been accomplished along an educational line as regards industries and commercial activities. Programs are arranged to work in harmoniously with the various committees of the Chamber of Commerce, to the end that everything possible may be done for the advancement of Glendale.

Particular attention has been paid to an effort to keep Glendale dollars working in Glendale, and more education along this line will follow from time to time.

It is the desire of the committee to see the attendance at the weekly luncheons reach at least 100, and from present indications that goal will be reached before the first month of 1925 has been checked off into the yesterdays.

GOULD H. WARREN, chairman radio program committee — Through the courtesy of radio station KFI, there has been afforded the city of Glendale greater opportunity to "tell the world" about Glendale.

We plan to have Glendale "on the air" each month, with Glendalians only taking part in the

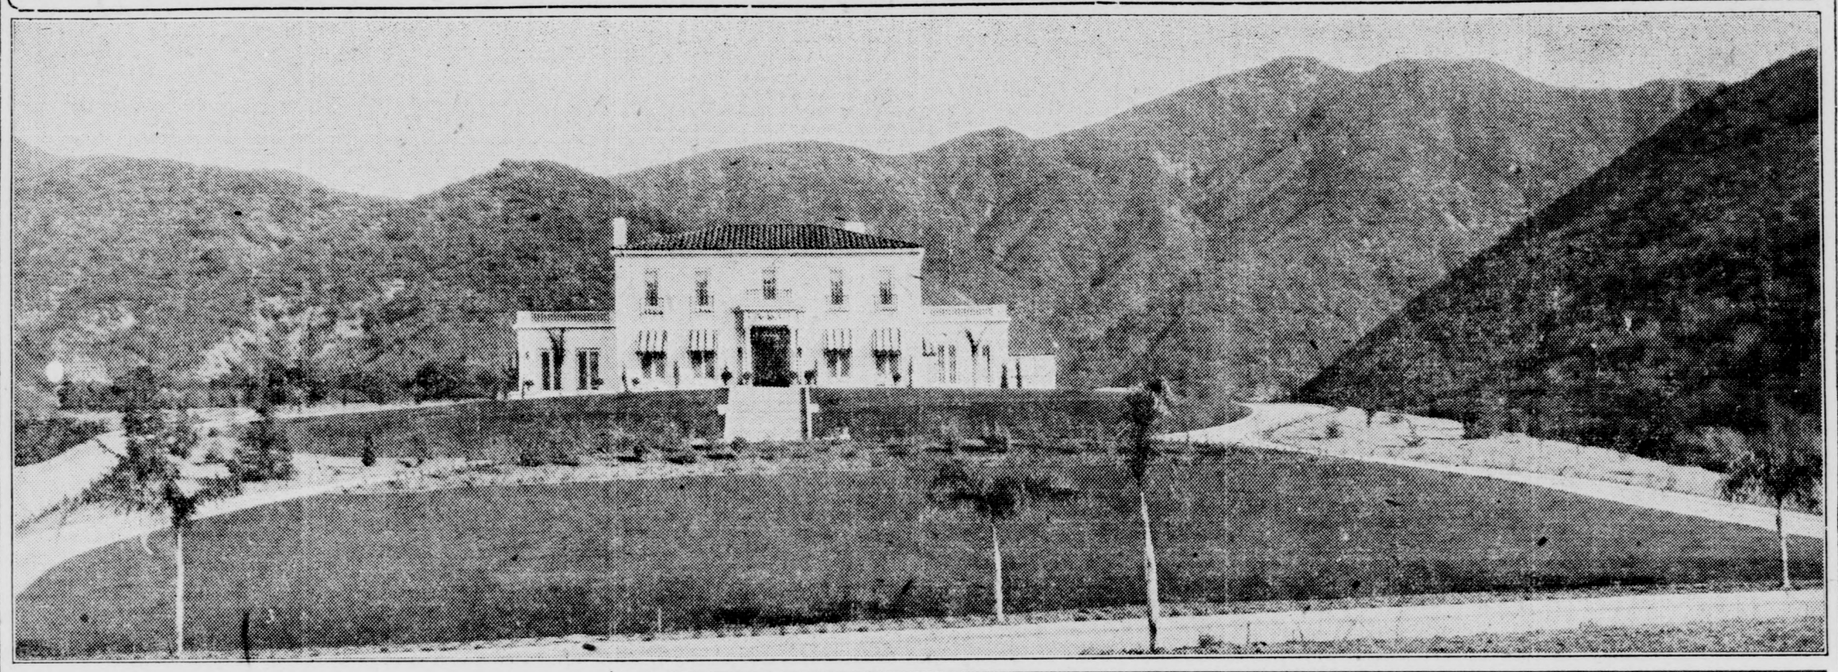
'Wonderview,' Residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans

The Glendale Evening News herewith gives another view of the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans. This beautiful residence, resting on the top of one of Southern California's numerous picturesque knolls, stands as an example of the finest in building applied to the creation of a residence. With the green Verdugo Hills forming a background, the classic lines of the structure stand out as in bas-relief. The Evans' estate comprises about two acres, and from the spacious windows of the residence spreads forth the broad expanse of scenery from which the home takes its name. Alfred F. Priest was the architect, and adhered to the preferences of Mrs. Evans for a well-balanced scheme of simple elegance in the classic style of the eighteenth century. The residence is an attractive one and the scene of many social gatherings.—A. F. Priest, Architect. Photo by Dolberg.



"Wonderview," the foot-hill home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Evans, is situated on a knoll of unusual beauty that lies directly in front of the largest canyon on the south side of Verdugo mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans selected this site, comprising approximately two acres, about five years ago. One year ago on New Year's day they took possession after a year spent in working out the grading of the grounds and the building of the home.

The house was designed by Alfred F. Priest, who adhered to Mrs. Evans' preference for a well balanced scheme of simple elegance in the classic styles of the eighteenth century. Suggesting the Italian outside with its broad terraces, long windows and travertine entrance and blending the Italian dignity, French delicacy and English "hominess" on the inside, the whole is doubly enhanced by the wonderful view from every vantage point from which the name "Wonderview" was derived.

Mrs. Evans personally superintended the interior decorations, planning the colors for each room and bringing electric fixtures, draperies, rugs and furnishing into complementary accord.

The living space in the home consists of entrance hall, drawing room, library, dining room, breakfast room, kitchen, maids' room and bath downstairs. Upstairs there are four large bedrooms and two baths.

Two features planned for recreation are the large swimming pool in the rear of the house and the large room in the basement with open fireplace, waxed cement floor and French doors leading to the east terrace.

Inheritance Tax Question Is Discussed

Proposed abolition of the California state inheritance tax was brought to the attention of the board of directors of he California Real Estate association at its regular meeting in Fresno. Forty real estate boards were represented, from San Francisco to San Diego. Upon motion of Chairman M. V. Hartranft, the resolution was referred to the taxation committee of the state association.

The board of directors also reaffirmed its position of last August relative to the Colorado river question, by urging Congress to prepare the way for a flood control dam on the river, building it far enough up the river, and of sufficient height to bring about the four great results: Flood control; irrigation; hydro electric, and domestic service. The action was taken at the suggestion of Chairman W. L. Hollingsworth of the state association's irrigation and reclamation committee.

The California realtors are asking for action toward impounding the flood waters of the Sacramento river for irrigation and domestic use as well as power development.

PREPARE PLAN FOR STATE MEETING

All Realty Boards To Send Large Delegations To Fresno Convention

Although the state convention of the California Real Estate associaion will be held in Fresno, October 7-10, 1925, already plans are under way for great motor caravans from the north and from the south. At the Fresno meeting Vice-President St. George Holden of San Francisco challenged the entire state for the honor of having the largest delegation. Last year San Francisco sent over 100 realtors, including a glee club and an orchestra. This year San Francisco will be stronger than ever and every board must look to its laurels, Mr. Holden said.

President Hal Hotchkiss of the San Diego board invited the state convention for an early meeting, and Vice-President Benjamin F. Wright, mayor of Monterey, extended an invitation to the convention to meet at the new $2,000,000 hotel in Del Monte in 1926.

Previous invitations for 1926 have come from San Bernardino and Santa Barbara real estate boards.

Directors Meet

The Yosemite national park lodge has invited the state association to hold its board of directors' meeting in Yosemite.

It is probable that the second quarterly meeting of the board of directors will be held in the southland in March or April.

Invitation to the California Real Estate association to run the California special train to the Detroit convention on June 19 over the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific Overland Limited route was received by the board of directors and referred to State Chairman St. George Holden of San Francisco. It is planned to have every real estate board represented on the train, and steps will be made for the purpose of inspecting the industrial and city plan development throughout the states.

Fortune Tellers Prey On Japanese Officers

TOKYO, Jan. 10.—Fortune tellers capitalized richly Japan's most recent political shake-up.

They promised to inform worried officials whether they were to be dismissed and many officials, doubtful of their futures, paid their yens and listened to the vague mutterings of the soothsayers.

L. A. Chamber Sends 3 Million Pieces Mail

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—Three million pieces of mail have been sent out by the Chamber of Commerce during the past year, or an increase of over 100,000 for the 1923 period, according to the annual report of the chamber.

TAX FORMS IN SOUTHLAND INCREASE

Startling Figures Revealed By Collector Goodcell For Coming Year

One and three-quarters million income tax forms for the use of Southern California taxpayers in reporting their 1925 income have been received by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex B. Goodcell, an increase of 25 per cent in the number required for 1924.

Figured on a basis of income form No. 1040, were these blanks placed end to end they would extend for a distance of 926 miles. More than a half million envelopes, or ninety miles of them, will be used, a combined form and envelope mileage of 1016 miles.

Were 1,750,000 blank forms No. 1040 spread out they would cover 140 acres of ground, while the envelopes would require four acres, an aggregate of 144 acres. Placed in the air, and on end, the 1,750,000 No. 1040 forms and envelopes would attain an altitude of 338 times higher than that of Mt. Shasta.

They would reach a point 200 times beyond the peak of Mt. Everest, the highest mountain in the world. They would extend from San Diego to San Francisco and return, or from Los Angeles to Roseburg, Oregon.

The requirement of additional income forms from year to year means growth in population and expansion of income production. Collector Goodcell said. Formerly it has been the custom to figure the annual increases of Uncle Sam's income factory in Southern California in millions of dollars; now they are calculated in miles.

RECORDS GIVE GROWTH FOR PAST YEAR

Review Business Activities In Los Angeles; More Industries Added

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—The summary of the business activities during the past year in this city, reveals a number of newly established records, according to the statisticians who are enjoying their annual revel in facts and figures.

The year witnessed the completion of public improvement programs totaling in excess of $38,000,000 in Los Angeles alone and in the same period, work was started on city and county projects which will call for the expenditure of over $69,000,000.

Office, club, loft, hotel and apartment buildings, costing in excess of $56,000,000 were completed in the past year. Sixty-two new churches were erected at a cost of $7,307,000.

Plenty School Bonds

School bonds totaling $34,640,000 were voted during the year and work has been started towards the expenditure of $15,000,000 of this amount. Work has also been started to carry out extensions for the municipal hydro-electric plant, provided for in a $16,000,000 bond issue. Another $1,000,000 bridge and viaduct program has been started by the city in the past month.

Reports of the two largest industries show that a total of 230,000,000 barrels of oil were produced in the year 1924 in the Los Angeles basin, and the motion picture industry produced pictures costing $170,000,000. The orange crop is estimated at $80,000,000 or $10,000,000 more than a year ago. The harbor exports, totaling $68,300,000, double those of 1923. The city gained 700 new industries making 5800, and in the matter of population an increase of from 950,000 at the close of 1923 to 1,100,000 at the end of last year, is shown by the statistical wizards.

Delegates to Dallas Meet Are Selected

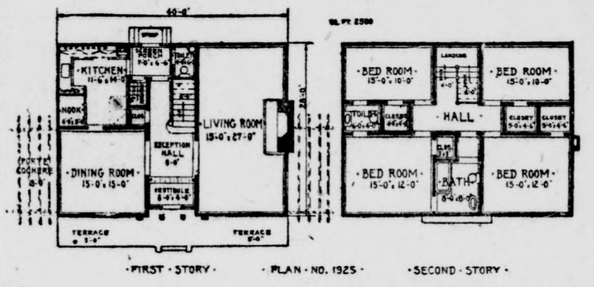
The board of directors of the California Real Estate association has officially designated President D. Richard Ainsley, Past State President Fred E. Reed and the secretary and managing Director, Glenn D. Willaman to represent the state association at the national meeting in Dallas, January 13-16.

Two special cars will be attached to the Sunset Limited today. A large number of California realtors are planning to attend the meeting, and up to the present time the following boards will be represented: Lankershim, Los Angeles, Oakland, Pasadena, Van Nuys, Santa Ana, Glendale, San Pedro, Huntington Park, Fresno, West Hollywood and San Francisco. The delegation will return January 18.

The board of directors reaffirmed the position of the Pasadena convention on the national amendment for general and district boards in cities of over 500,000, and also declared in favor of the proposed national amendment, offered by the Florida association, whereby the local, state and national memberships would be made interlocking. This is known as the reciprocal amendment.

Adequate Plans Available

Complete specifications and blueprints for this two-story structure are offered homebuilders by BENTLEY LUMBER CO., 460 West Los Feliz road. The plans shown below provide for plenty of room, all of large size and easily accessible. The large living room is a feature of the arrangement.



Plan now is the advice of an official of the Bentley Lumber Co., 460 West Los Feliz road, which gives ideas and suggestions to help the builder with his new home. Many plans, all prepared for immediate use, are kept on file at the company's offices for the use of home builders or plans will be prepared as desired.

They say you can tell by looking at some houses that little time or thought was given to their planning. A study of arrangement will often reveal the lack of proper designing, even in homes that have attractive exteriors. The average person builds but one home in a lifetime. He has little or no real experience along that line and consequently makes mistakes that are a source of regret in the years that follow. Many homebuilders do not know, for example, that a house of many gables will be more expensive to build than one with few gables; that the pitch of the gable may make an attractive or an unsightly house, and that thousands of steps may be saved by the proper placing of doors.

The Bentley Lumber Co. official says that grave mistakes are inexcusable when sound building advice is to be had for the asking, and if the homebuilder would place himself in the hands of building material merchants who have made a study of home planning and building he would be started right and kept on the right track, providing instructions are absorbed and carried through to the completion of the home.

Bentley Lumber Co. is a member of the Lumbermen's Service association, National Homebuilders' society and Progressive Merchants' association.

Coffee Shop to Open On Broadway Monday

The Cantonwine coffee shop will open Monday at 215 East Broadway, next the Court shops, under the management of Elmer Cantonwine, who formerly ran the lunch counter in the Chafee market, 113 North Brand boulevard. Mr. Cantonwine will have women cooks and says the meals will be the same home cooking that was served at his old place. No canned vegetables will be used, only the freshest and best the market affords. He has been in Glendale three years and was in Los Angeles two years and has had years of experience in the restaurant and cafe business.

The accident occurred at Grand View avenue and San Fernando road, according to records of the Glendale police department. The name of the truck driver has not yet been learned by the police.

Glendale post No. 127, American Legion, has been practically assured of receiving the James A. Drain cup for the most impressive float in the legion division of the Tournament of Roses parade, it was announced last night at the meeting of the post in Legion hall, 610 East Broadway. David O'Leary, adjutant of the Pasadena post, sent word to Adjutant E. E. McWain of the local post that the trophy would come to Glendale, despite the protests of the South Pasadena post, winners of first prize.

The trophy, together with the trophy awarded the drum and bugle coprs of the local post, are being engraved and will be photographed today, later being presented to the post, it was announced.

Plans for the membership drive were announced by J. W. Everington, chairman of the campaign. Captains of the four districts into which the city has been divided are: E. W. Gilliland, first district; Glen Mapes, second district; Henry Prussing, third district, and J. H. Allard, fourth district. Lee Hunter and J. R. Trow were the first two former service men to join the local post on the eve of the drive.

Five past commanders of the local post, J. A. Wilson, Drew W. Nicoles, James F. McBryde, Chalmer D. PREPARING FOR YEAR'S PROGRESS

Various Committees Make Plans for Development Of Community

programs, which will consist of a short talk and forty-five minutes of musical entertainment.

These programs will not only acquaint the outside world with the charms of our city, but will serve to enrich the civic pride of our own people, who, as individuals, are not able to keep account of the rapid strides being made in all phases of our development.

I am wondering what would be the magic effect if each of us would write even one friend in the east to tune in on Glendale's program. I am wondering if it would not mean more people, more money, more skyscrapers, more factories, lower taxes and even greater advance than in the past.

R. ERNEST TUCKER, radio program committee—The aim of the radio committee should be not only to tell about Glendale, but, through the medium of the entertainment features of the program, to make known to the country at large that Glendale is a music and art center; that we have many of the world's artists living here who are giving generously of their talent.

J. ARTHUR MYERS, radio program committee—We hope to present only our best talent and we have a splendid variety of the best. We shall endeavor to present only good, clean entertainment.

R. E. JOHNSTON, Chairman Civics Committee—The personnel of the Civic Committee of the Chamber of Commerce will this year be made up from the service organizations. The plan as outlined by R. E. Johnston, the chairman, met with the hearty approval of the Board of Directors. Each chairman of the Civic Committee of the service clubs and civic organizations were asked to serve as a member of the Civic Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. This does not make the service clubs or civic organizations members of this committee, but it brings these organizations directly in touch with the activity of the Civic Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The Civic Committee of the Chamber of Commerce might then be likened to the hub of a big wheel. None of the organizations represented are bound in any way by the action of the Civic Committee of the Chamber of Commerce; it is their member only, and not the organization itself, that is a member of this committee, but it brings each and every organization which is taking an active interest in the civic affairs in Glendale where they can have the cooperation of one another and coordinate all their work. Something good for the benefit of the city is continually coming up at the meetings of these various organizations. It is referred to their Civic Committee. That organization feeling the need of co-operation and help to put over that particular thing will naturally ask their member who is serving on the Civic Commiteee of the Chamber of Commerce to bring this matter to the attention of this committee, where it will be discussed and if it receives their approval, they will, of course, go back to their respective organization and present the matter to them. All members of this committee must be members of the Chamber of Commerce. The following are the personnel of this committee to date: D. H. Smith, Kiwanis club; T. F. Beggs, Lions club; Peter Hanson, Optimist club; J. M. Rhoades, Rotary club; W. R. Vanderwood, Exchange club; J. M. Boland, Glendale Realty board. The American Legion, the Tuesday Afternoon club and the Elks will perhaps have representation on this committee also.

PERCY J. HAYSELDEN, chairman flood control committee—The flood control committee will be composed of fifteen leading citizens of Glendale, unprejudiced and unbiased, who will shortly take up knotty problems of flood control improvements in this city and work earnestly for their solution. On the committee are three prominent engineers who have consented to give their time and experience to the cause. A thorough investigation of the main flood control problems will be made and the plan for handling them, thought best by the committee, will be threshed out. After this we will be ready to make our recommendations to the Chamber of Commerce. It is the intention of myself and my committeemen to see that justice is done to all concerned and that the best interests of Glendale as a whole are protected.

W. B. KELLY, chairman public service corporations committee—Our first step will be to call a joint meeting of members of this committee, directors of the Chamber of Commerce and the heads of all public service corporations operating in Glendale. It will be our aim to solve problems confronting the Chamber of Commerce and these corporations and at the same time maintain a healthy spirit of friendship and co-operation with the corporations at all times. We believe that much more can be accomplished in this way than by antagonizing any one organization.

LLOYD H. WILSON, chairman industrial committee—The industrial committee has been appointed, but we have not had a meeting as yet. Our first meeting will be next week.

The industrial situation in Glendale looks better today than ever before, and if the committee doesn't make good and bring industries to this city in 1925, it is its own fault.

Five spur tracks have been put in on the west side of the Southern Pacific tracks, opening up several subdivisions and making it available for factories to come to Glendale with trackage. In addition, the new truck highway, which will go through this district, gives Glendale an ideal location, having better railroad and boulevard facilities for industries than any other city in Southern California.

I have heard that the price of our industrial sites is prohibitive. I have always known that our industrial sites have been lower than the industrial districts of Los Angeles. I have handled property in Los Angeles' industrial district, and spent one full day and a half last week in the industrial district of Los Angeles, and I will say that I can cut the price of Los Angeles acreage in two. I can deliver, at the present time, industrial acreage for $5000 per acre in tracts from one to five acres, and from $5000 up with spur tracks already in.

Buildings for light industries can be secured at a rent 33 per cent less than in the city of Los Angeles, and these industrial buildings are ready for any industry which may want to come to Glendale within thirty days' notice.

Buildings are now being built to house industries, and industrial real estate agents of Glendale have worked for several years on this situation and are now ready to take care of and house any industr that comes to our city.

A survey will be made of the industrial district of Glendale by the Chamber of Commerce, starting February 1. This will give valuable information that has been needed for some time to locate industries here.

Your industrial committee has been selected from the best type of business men in Glendale who understand the industrial situation and what it means to bring industries to our city, and we expect to work for that purpose during this year.

Christian Endeavors Hold Annual Banquet

Members of the senior intermediate Christian Endeavor society of Glendale Presbyterian church held their fourth annual banquet last night at the church. "Fishermen" was the subject. Members heard a program of serious and humorous features on this theme. Green and white were combined in the color scheme. Delicacies were enjoyed through the courtesy of Strassers' Delicatessen shop on North Brand boulevard. The program included songs by the Ambassador boys' quartet, including Spencer Jewell, Harold Parker, Fred Fallis, Edward Mishler. They sang "Workers and Shirkers," "Oh Suzanna" and "So May You." A business meeting was held. Rev. W. E. Edmonds, and Baryl Parker, an alumnus, spoke. Toasts were given by Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Brown, Ronald West, Elsie Forsythe, Bonnie Jean Lockwood, James Littell, John Simpson, Harold Parker was toastmaster.

Owner of Apartments Sees Prediction True

"Years ago I prophesied that some day Los Angeles would realize the possibilities of Glendale and this city would become as well known as Hollywood," said T. J. Fambrough, 206 North Orange street, who has just built the Lou-Vir apartment house at 325 South Glendale avenue at a cost of $20,000, "and the sincerity of my opinion in the future of Glendale is proved by my investments."

Mr. Fambrough came to Glendale twelve years ago from New York where had lived for twelve years. His native state is Georgia. He has built many flats, apartments and residences in Glendale and is connected with the Federal bank, a director in the Federal Mortgage Co. and the Federal Building & Finance Co. The Lou-Vir apartments are named after Mr. Fambrough's two daughters, Louise and Virginia.

Easterners Asked to 'Tune In' on Glendale

All residents of Glendale have been requested by the Chamber of Commerce to write to friends and relatives in the east inviting them to tune in on Glendale's next radio program over KFI on January 17. The program will be broadcast from the new Earl C. Anthony super-station which operates on 1500 watts. This is sufficient strength so that persons east of the Rocky mountains can very easily pick it up. The program will be staged between 9 and 10 o'clock here, which means between 11 and 12 in the middlewest and 12 and 1 o'clock in the east. The idea of having all the world tune in through invitations extended by Glendale friends is advocated by Secretary Howard I. Wood of the chamber and Gould H. Warren of the radio committee.

Parent Teachers Hear Cookman Talk on Birds

Alfred Cookman of 336 West Pioneer drive gave an illustrated lecture on birds yesterday afternoon before members of the Parent-Teacher association and students of the Santa Fe avenue school in Los Angeles. "Our Feathered Friends from the Mountains to the Sea" was his subject at the Community Night service meeting Thursday night at the Lincoln avenue Methodist church in Pasadena. The lectures deal with the migration and distribution of birds. The spring series of lectures will begin in March and these will deal with the romance and love antics of the birds. Mr. Cookman will lecture at Santa Paula tomorrow.

WOODCRAFT TO BE SUPREME MONDAY

Neighbors, Woodmen Camp To Install Officers at Same Time

Woodcraft will be supreme on Monday night, when the Neighbors of Glendale camp, No. 12886, Modern Woodmen of America, and of Glendale camp, No. 8938, Royal Neighbors of America, meet in a public installation of their officers-elect for the year.

The affair will be held in the camp hall, corner of Brand boulevard and Park avenue, and will start promptly at 8:30 o'clock, a short business session of the Modern Woodmen being held prior to the meeting, and the camp clerk, Attorney Henry Molz, advises all members of the Modern Woodmen to be on hand by 7:30 o'clock, so that the business can be conducted and finished in time for the public installation of the officers.

Following the installation, time permitting, it is contemplated to hold a social session, refreshments being in order, and dancing, too.

The committee in charge hopes to give all present an enjoyable evening. Those who remember previous affairs will surely want to be on hand, and all friends of these two great societies are most cordially invited to come.

Modern Woodmen of America is the largest fraternal beneficiary society in this country, having nearly a million and a half members, and the society Royal Neighbors of America is the sister auxiliary of the order, and the largest fraternal beneficiary society governed exclusively by women. Officers to be installed to serve the Modern Woodmen are:

Woodmen Afficers

Frank L. Brines, consul; Frederick F. Sullivan, past consul; Harold L. Luce, advisor; Charles A. Bunting, banker; Henry Molz, clerk; Walter Johnson, escort; George Wesley Tucker, watchman; Earl W. King, sentry; Joseph A. Rockwell, Tulla A. Rucker and J. Warren Davis, trustees; Dr. Harry C. Smith, Dr. Francis M. Collier and Dr. Edmund T. Remmen, physicians.

Royal Neighbors

Officers to serve the Royal Neighbors are: Maud Rucker, oracle; Estella Hock, vice-oracle; Estella Rockwell, past oracle; Ida Leach, chancellor; Lillian Howes, recorder; Veneta Bunting, receiver; Thelma Rucker, marshal; Leona Anderson, assistant marshal; Anna L. Smith, inner sentinel; Julia Gibbins, outer sentinel; Winnie Ingles, manager; Dr. Harry C. Smith and Dr. Laura J. Brown, physicians; Maudie Clinton, Modesty; Rosa Anderson, Faith; Aguste Behnken, Courage; Margaret LeDuc, Unselfishness; Eva P. Molz, Endurance.

Great Gains

Both organizations have made extraordinary gains in the past year, and from present indications the present year will increase membership, the Modern Woodmen at Monday's meeting having three new members to consider, while the Royal Neighbors at their regular meeting, held last night, adopted one new one, with a number already contemplated for the next meeting.

Woodcraft can truly be said to offer all that other societies do, and this at a cost below any without exception. Both local camps have in their respective membership many of this city's well known and most respected citizens. In both, one's religious and political beliefs are unquestioned, and these are two of the outstanding reasons for their remarkable popularity.

$20,000 PRIZE IS CURSE TO WINNER

Lucky Artist Haled Into Court for Neglecting Minor Children

CLEVELAND, Jan. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. George Elwell, facing poverty today again took up their life together after seven months of frenzied spending of a $20,000 prize awarded to Elwell, a commercial artist of Youngstown, Ohio, for naming a popular weekly, which culminated this week in Elwell's arrest on a warrant sworn out by his wife charging neglect of his minor children. Then came a reconciliation in a dingy courtroom presided over by a judge and probation officer.

"There's only $850 left, but I've still got my health and hands," Elwell explained today. I wish to God I'd never seen a penny of that money. It was nothing but a curse."

Mrs. Elwell echoed the sentiment, and the family of four children ranging in age from one year to nine played contentedly in the little home, where love's fires had been re-kindled with the return to poverty—and work.

When the prize check came, Elwell bought an expensive car. Then followed weeks of life in hotels, dinners in restaurants and the purchase of drinks at bootleggers' prices. Mrs. Elwell nagged, Elwell said, and so he left home.

The court following Elwell's arrest, ordered the remaining money impounded in court, to be used for the children.

Elwell was looking for a job today, in place of the one he gave up when fortune rapped at his door.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—More prominence in the forward movement of prices today was given to the railroad, oil and motor stocks, steel stocks and high priced industrials which held the center of the stage in the preceding sessions of the week.

Except for realizing sales in American Can and a few of the specialty stocks in the first period, buying orders predominated in the early trading and the forward movements in many stocks simply resumed from last nights finishing point.

Impressive advances were staged by the mercantile stocks, including Sears-Roebuck, Macy and Montgomery Ward, the motors under the leadership of General Motors, which reached a new high for the movement at 67 1-2; the equipments, with American Locomotive at 110 1-2, equivalent to 220 on the 1923 basis of the stock; the rails, with Missouri Pacific common and preferred, Rock Island and New York Central active and buoyant; the oils, with Atlantic Refining making a new high on the movement at 110 1-2, and the low priced oils like Simms, Independent, Shell Union, Maryland, California Petroleum, Invincible, Louisiana Oil and Trans-Continental oil for nearly a year the undesirables of the speculative market, forging to the front and commanding the best prices of the movement.

Stock sales today were 1,164,900 shares; bonds $13,198,000.

Profit taking in the industrials and specialties increased near the close of the market and an irregular price trend continued in this division of the market with declines of a point or more in American Can, Radio, Baldwin Electric. The motor and oil stocks pushed upward with General Motors up 3 points to above 69, and Simms up 2½ to 26, the leaders in the respective groups.

The bond market was strong and active with Liberty bonds and foreign government issues slightly higher. Standard Gas & Electric Co. 6½s of 1933, convertible into stock, made a further gain of 3½ points at 120, a rise of nearly 10 points from Friday's low.

Denver & Rio Grande 5s of 1955 sold up to 64½; New York Central debenture 6s were active around 117; St. Paul 4s got back to 78¼; Anaconda Copper Co. 7s sold in good volume at 103¾ and the new American Telephone & Telegraph Co. 5s at 95⅜.

CHICAGO WHEAT

By International News Service

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—Grains closed higher at the end of the short session today. Wheat was ⅛ to 1⅜ up; corn was ⅜ to ¼ up; oats were ⅛ to ⅜ up. Provisions were firm at the close.

Nazarene Pastor Tells Subjects for Tomorrow

"What Love Can Do" is the subject of the sermon which will be delivered tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock by Rev. Fred St. Clair at the First Church of the Nazarene. Rev. St. Clair has chosen the subject, "If Man Sprung from a Monkey from What Sprang the Monkey," for the service at 3 o'clock and for the service at 7:30 o'clock the sermon will be "Does It Make Any Difference What I Believe as Long as I Am Sincere About It?"

STOCK TICKER FALLS DOWN ON REPORT

Machine Unable to Keep Up With Rapid Sales Made In Wall Street

By CHARLES A. WOLCOTT
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The stock ticker, the instrument which tells the world what the bulls and bears in Wall street are doing, has fallen down on the job, and the financial district wants something done about it.

Unfortunately for this almost human machine, thousands of people watch it constantly for five hours a day, and that is a pretty heavy strain to undergo, especially when the market is boiling, a speculation-mad public is rushing in to buy and sell, and everybody is talking about 3,000,000 share days.

Wall street commission brokers have been complaining about the delay in recording sales. Last Saturday, for instance, under the magic of "radio," the tickers' resources were completely exhausted. Trading on the stock exchange stopped at noon, but the ticker did not finish recording the sales for 42 minutes after the bell on the floor had rung. There have been other occasions in the big market of the last two months or more when the ticker was anywhere from 15 to 30 minutes late.

Worries Traders

It is disconcerting, of course, to the trader who does not know where he stands after he has put in an order through his broker. Anxiety turns to disgust when reports are not only minutes but hours late, and that is bad for business. Leading brokers have taken the matter up with the stock exchange authorities and many suggestions have been offered to improve the service. The idea of system of amplifiers emitting an account of every trade from a stock exchange to customer rooms, has been virtually laughed down.

When a man wants to sell long stock on a rising market he has not much cause for worry! He will probably get a satisfactory price for his stock. But imagine his state of mind when he stands over a ticker, a half hour behind the market, when prices are tumbling and wonders what he will receive for his offerings.

The stock exchange has spent a great deal of money and has taken great pains to make the stock ticker system the most scientific and nearest to perfection in the world, but it evidently has not gone far enough. That is not to say that it is not cognizant of the unusual conditions. It is and it wants to remedy the situation, but everything cannot be done overnight. Meanwhile the mirror of Wall street speculation has reached the cracking point.

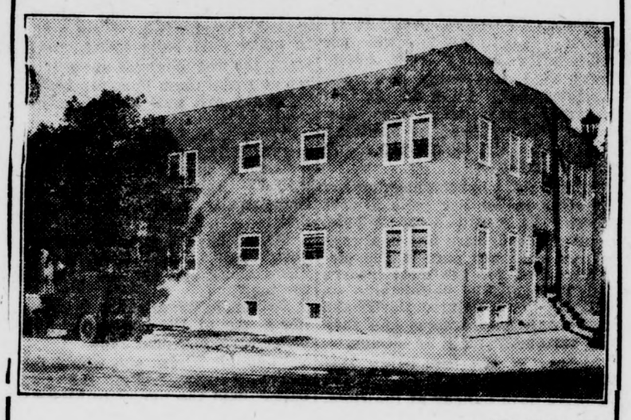
The Lou-Vir Apartment Building at 325 South Glendale avenue of 8 units was built at a cost of $20,000.00 by T. J. Fambrough. Handsomely furnished, down to detail, these apartments rent from $40.00 up.



—BY DOLBERG

The Lou-Vir Apartments, named after the daughters of T. J. Fambrough, the owner and builder, are both a credit to Mr. Fambrough and the city. Situated a little south of Colorado boulevard on Glendale Ave., this apartment building adds considerable to the ever-growing property and business values of Glendale Ave.

Every detail of the building suggests foresight and determination to provide comfort and convenience for the tenants. The proprietor and owner presented the dominating idea when he remarked, "I worked out the entire scheme of the kitchens, arrangements around the built-in cupboards, ice box coolers, etc." and the success of the method is witnessed very forcibly by the almost ingeniously arranged kitchen.

The apartments, that comprise eight units, are finished on the outside in California stucco and with what is called Staff decorations. Single apartments, the bedroom and living rooms are combined, there being an in-a-door bed and a day bed that provides a couch for the day. There are neat bookcases and secretaires in the living rooms, and with the excellent furnishings and taste in the internal Gumwood finishing, the choice and excellence of furniture and carpeting, besides the electrical fixtures, etc., these rooms are exceptionally inviting. There are also dressing rooms with spacious linen closets, modern bath rooms with constant hot water. Another unique feature of the apartments is the drainage of the ice boxes direct with the sink that does away with the annoyance of draining ice boxes. The basement is provided with laundry trays, while between the floors of the apartments, "silent deadening" has been used to assure desirable quietness. Of course in such apartments there are hardwood floors throughout and convenient breakfast nooks. Mr. La-Casse, who collaborated in the designing and completed the general building, spared no pains to create a handsome and substantial structure which cost in the neighborhood of $20,000.

"It was my pleasure to design and complete all the carpenter work on the Lou-Vir Apartments. The building is highly commendable to Mr. Fambrough, its owner and proprietor, and I take this means of offering him my well wishes and congratulations."

The Wrath To Come

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM, Copyright 1924

CHAPTER XVII

"Blunn has a terrific pull with the police," Grant reminded him.

Stoneham moved towards the telephone.

"I'll ring up Police Headquarters and see if she's been arrested," he announced. "I know a man there who'll look after this for us."

His hand was already upon the telephone when there was an imperative knock at the door. He glanced around. Grant rose to his feet. Before either of them could say a word, the door was thrown open and closed again. Cleo stood there, with her back to it, holding tightly to the handle, panting for breath.

"They're after me," she cried. "There's scarcely a minute. Ring up Itash. Quick! 1817 Plaza."

Stoneham asked at once for the number.

"What do you want to say to Itash?" Grant demanded. "Tell me the rest quickly. You're French. Itash is in league with the Germans."

"Bah!" she sobbed. "He could be in league with the devil if he would come back to me. Listen. I ask him. He shall hear what I know. Then he shall choose. He shall take me and my silence and leave her forever, or I will kill her and I will tell you his secrets."

"Is that 1817 Plaza?" Stoneham enquired.

"It is Count Itash who speaks," was the slow rejoinder.

"Mademoiselle Cleo is here in 940, Hotel Great Central, the apartment of Mr. Grant Slattery. She desires you to come."

Cleo sprang across the room. She snatched the receiver in her own hand. She broke into a stream of incoherent French, rocking herself back and forth all the time, as though distracted with pain.

"I heard you speak those things," she cried. "I know the great secrets. I know what they would give me the price of a kingdom to have me tell. Very well, then, very well. Come here, then, before the police can touch me. Come to me here. Give up Yvonne forever, and there shall be a seal on my lips as though the finger of the Virgin rested there. I have never deceived you, I am always faithful. I am always true. I am racked with pain and jealousy, Itash. Take me back. I have spoken the word. It shall be as though Her finger rested upon my lip."

She drew down the receiver. She turned towards them with a smile of triumph upon her lips.

"He comes," she announced. "Now we shall see!"

Cleo threw herself into a chair, sprang up again, listened for a moment at the door, her hand pressed to her side.

"Mademoiselle," Grant said to her soothingly, "consider. You're in no such great danger. Mademoiselle Yvonne is, I understand, unhurt. Even if you should be arrested the charge will not be a serious one."

"They will keep me in prison a month, perhaps two months," she cried. "And all that time he will be with her. It is not to be borne. I meant to kill her. I wish I had killed her."

He tried to reason with her.

"Mademoiselle Cleo," he pointed out, "you are young, extremely attractive, a wonderful dancer. I will take an apartment for you and have you appointed principal danseuse at one of our best restaurants here. You shall have two thousand dollars a month and an automobile. I will present to you the young men of the city. Why worry about that faithless Itash? I will do all this for you, if you will tell us in these few seconds, while you still have time, those things which remain in your memory."

"In five minutes you will know," she replied. "In five minute if Itash will not promise to give up Yvonne, I shall tell you all for nothing. Then we will see."

"You will trust to his promise?"

"If he lies, he knows that this time I shall kill him. I am not a girl who can be treated as he has done. He shall learn that."

There was a slow and somewhat ponderous knocking at the door. Then suddenly she gave a little cry.

"It is too soon," she exclaimed. "It must be those others. Protect me. For heaven's sake, don't let them take me before Itash comes."

The knocking was repeated, and this time the door was instantly opened. There was no doubt about the character of the two men who entered; detective was written on every feature. One stood by the door. The other advanced a little into the room.

"Mr. Slattery, I believe," he said. "Sorry to intrude upon you, sir, but I have a warrant for the arrest of that young woman. You're Mademoiselle Cleo?" he went on.

"What do you want with me?" she demanded.

"I'll have to take you to the police station, young lady," was the brusque reply. "Charge of shooting with the intent to murder. You'd better keep your mouth closed till you get to headquarters."

She looked around her a little wildly.

"Can't you make them wait until Itash comes?" she begged of Grant. "He will, perhaps, arrange with them. I didn't mean to hurt her. All that I want is Itash."

"Say, young lady," the detective interposed, "our orders are that you are not to talk. We've an automobile outside and if you'll just allow me to run you over first for arms, I guess we can let you walk ahead of us and no fuss."

"I have no weapons," she declared, holding out her arms. "You can search me if you like."

"Who's this Itash she's talking about?" the detective enquired, as he passed his hands over the girl's quivering body.

"Count Itash. The Japanese gentleman who was with the girl she is supposed to have shot at," Grant told him.

"So he was the cause of the trouble, was he?" the man observed. "Well, young lady, he'll be able to see you at Police Headquarters after you've been examined."

"Before I go," she began—

"Stop it!" the detective insisted. "My orders are strict. You are not to be allowed to talk. Special orders from the Chief of Police. I don't want to do anything harsh and I don't wish to lay hands on the young lady," the man went on, turning to Grant, "but she's got to cut out the gab. This way, young lady."

DOBINSON PLAYERS

Glendale theatre-goers are enthusiastic in their praise of "The Hole in the Wall," the weird mystery melodrama now being presented by the Dobinson Players at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre. The play will be offered again tonight, announces Miss Eva Daniels, business manager, and will go on again next week, starting Wednesday. The curtain rises 8:15 o'clock nightly.

The author, Fred Jackson, is noted for the large number of New York hits he has written. He has never turned out a more exciting and genuinely interesting play than the present offering.

Mary Worth, who portrays he role of Jean Oliver, does excellent work and Joseph McManus, as the reporter-detective who runs the crook gang to earth, further distinguishes himself. Olaf Hytten, in the role of "The Fox," leader of the gang, is equally good.

THE GATEWAY

Nita Naldi is a happy young Spanish maiden in Rudolph Valentino's latest Paramount picture, "A Sainted Devil," which Joseph Henabery produced at the Famous Players eastern studio. It is all because she has a chance to wear simple clothes for once in her screen career.

"They usually load me down with heavily beaded dresses and doll me up in vampire styles," explained Miss Naldi, "but in this picture I can do my vamping in a peasant's costume, neat but effective. It certainly is a welcome relief after having worn about every kind of evening gown the modistes could think of. In this picture I don't even wear any crowns on my head or anything like that. I'm comfortable for once in my life."

Miss Naldi has been begging her directors to let her have a part where she could wear simple, comfortable dresses but it always seemed that her part in the pictures called for the most bizarre and exotic gowns obtainable. As Carlotta in "A Sainted Devil" she wears only two dresses and they are extremely plain in design.

Others in the supporting cast of this picture, which opens a run of three days Sunday at the Gateway Theatre, are Helen D'Algy, Louise Lagrange, Dagmar Godowsky and George Siegman.

THE T. D. & L.

"The Dixie Handicap" concludes today at the T. D. & L. theatre. Sunday to Tuesday the picture is "Tongues of Flame," with Thomas Meighan.

THE GLENDALE

"Riders Up" concludes today at the Glendale. theatre. Sunday to Tuesday the picture is Reginald Denny in "The Fast Worker."

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SNOWBALLS

"Uncle Wiggily, will you please hop over to Mrs. Twistytail's for me this morning?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy in the hollow stump bungalow, one morning.

"Is anything the matter with the lady pig?" asked the bunny gentleman. For I will not conceal it from you, Mrs. Twistytail was a pig, but a lady pig for all that.

"Oh, no!" laughed Nurse Jane, "nothing is wrong with Mrs. Twistytail, as far as I know. I just want you to get some of her canned red cherries. I am going to make puff balls today, and I want the red cherries to put on top to make them look pretty."

"What are puff balls?" asked the bunny.

"They are for your supper," answered Nurse Jane.

"No, I mean how are they made?" asked Mr. Longears, thoughtfully twinkling his pink nose.

"Oh, I haven't time to tell you now," said Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Hop along and get the cherries for me."

So Uncle Wiggily did, borrowing a can of the red cherries to bring back to Nurse Jane.

"Though I wish she would tell me how she makes the puff balls," said the bunny to himself. "I'm going to watch and see. I might want to make them myself some day."

"Now I'm going to be busy, so please don't bother me," said the muskrat lady to Mr. Longears when he gave her the cherries. So the bunny crept into a corner of the kitchen and hid behind a chair, watching.

Nurse Jane took some flour, butter and sugar, molasses and all the other things, including eggs, that go into puff balls, and she beat them up. Then she dropped little round balls of dough in a pan and put them in the oven. On top of each one was a cherry. And when the pan was taken from the oven it was filled with round, puffy cakes like half a snowball, each one with a red cherry on top.

"I'll set them outside on the back steps to cool," said Nurse Jane.

And then Uncle Wiggily thought of a trick he could play. When Nurse Jane wasn't looking he moved the pan of puff balls from the back stoop to the front stoop. Next, getting another pan, Uncle Wiggily made a lot of white snowballs, and cut them in half. These snowballs he laid in the pan, the flat side down.

"It's a pity to waste real red cherries on snowball cakes," laughed the bunny.

"I'll put some spots of red ink on. That will look like cherries. And when Nurse Jane brings in the pan of snowballs instead of puff balls she'll be much surprised."

So Uncle Wiggily put the pan of snowballs with dabs of red ink, like cherries, on each one, outside the back door. Pretty soon Nurse Jane thought her puff ball cakes were cool enough and she went out to bring them in.

But just then the Bob Cat happened to pass, and, seeing what he thought were birthday cakes in the pan, he made a jump for them, crying:

"I'll eat every one!"

"Oh, you bold thing!" squealed Nurse Jane. "My lovely puff balls!"

But when the Bob Cat got a mouthful of the cold things in the pan covered with red ink, he howled:

"What do you mean — puff balls! These are snowballs! Somebody played a trick on me!"

"Yes, I did!" laughed Uncle Wiggily! Ha! Ha! I thought I was playing a trick on Nurse Jane, but the trick was on the Bob Cat!"

"Well, I'm glad my puff balls are all right," said the muskrat lady, as the bunny brought them in from the front porch. And very good they were, too, if you ask me.

So if the eggbeater doesn't put roller skates on the ice box and try to turn it into a rocking chair, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily going coasting.

Pittsburgh Steel Mills Are Busiest Since War

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 10.—The Pittsburgh steel trade now has the brightest prospects known since the war. The larger mills of the district have received about all the specifications they can deliver in January so that plants will run at almost capacity throughout the month. Production at 75 per cent of capacity or above seems assured for the first quarter. Buying of second quarter tonnages except tinplate has not yet appeared, partly because mills are reluctant to take on such business and partly because consumers are uncertain of their requirements. It is expected the first overtures for second quarter tonnages of heavy steel products will be made within two weeks. It is not considered improbable that higher prices will rule for sheets and bars.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

DIETETIC SINS

Yesterday and the day before I gave you the foundation for your reducing diet. Please get the back papers if you missed them.

I want you to have this foundation which will supply all the needs of your system except some of your energy needs, which your own fat will supply. You will notice that I have allowed you bread or potatoes and milk, and told you that you could have desserts occasionally. Perhaps you are alarmed, realizing that these foods are known as fattening foods. But let me tell you this: All foods are fattening. Lettuce is fattening, cucumbers are fattening, turnips are fattening—ANY food is fattening, or may be an irritant, if it happens to be more than the system needs.

Some foods are much more fattening than others. Ah, yes! The concentrated foods, such as sugar and fats, are very much more fattening than the watery foods, such as vegetables and fruits, but measured by their energy values, 100 C. of lettuce (approximately 16 ounces) is just as fattening as 100 C. of butter (approximately one-half ounce). The reason we have to have a standard unit such as the calorie for measuring the energy value of foods is because we cannot measure that value in a standard bulk or weight.

What combinations of food are fattening? Any combination of food is fattening if it happens to be more than the system needs.

You have often read in the advertisements of certain systems of reducing the following statement: "A noted scientist has made the wonderful discovery that certain foods in combination with certain other foods will produce fat, and these same foods in combination with other foods will actually consume fat!" The statement is false. There are no combinations of food that will "actually consume fat." I wish there were! It's too good to be true, if anything was ever too good to be true. Certain combinations are more fattening than others, yes, but simply because the foods combined are more fattening.

You could reduce on a diet of white bread, potatoes, fats and sugar. Compared to other foods they are high in calories and justly have the reputation of being fattening foods. However, if on a diet like this you did not secure enough calories during the day for your energy and heat needs, you would reduce on it. But, of course, such a diet would be unwholesome both for reducing and for general use, because it is deficient in mineral salts, vitamins and protein.

Most of us who are overweight have some particular dietetic sin. Excessive bread and butter, candy and rich desserts are the most common of these sins. Tasting while cooking makes calories mount up. What is your dietetic sin? Track it down.

You will probably lose weight without paying any particular attention to calories if you cut down markedly on your favorite articles of food. But do not think that you can cut these down markedly and consume enormous amounts of the less fattening foods, and still lose weight because, let me repeat, there is no food that is not fattening, if it happens to be more than the system needs.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

THROAT GARGLES

If bad teeth cause bad breath, go to a dentist as soon as you can. The teeth are so delicate and so precious, and so essential to good looks, that money and time should never be spared on them.

If indigestion is the cause you know the remedy as well as I. Begin dieting by drinking two glasses of hot water to flush out the stomach, take a laxative if you need one, and cut out all hard to digest foods for several days. Eat lightly and drink six glasses of hot water during the day, two at a time if you can manage it, the first two before breakfast. If you hate hot water as I do, salt it a little, then you won't mind it.

If throat troubles are the cause, gargle with antiseptics. The market is so full of these things and newspapers and magazines carry so much of their advertising, that you have only to choose the sort you want. I'd suggest, if you have nothing in the house, plain salt and hot water, which will kill throat germs and harden the tissues and is, as well, an excellent mouth wash.

Peppermint water is also good as mouth wash and throat gargle, if the trouble is bad breath. A drop or two of oil of peppermint, or any throat or mouth wash with peppermint in, does well. Fresh mint from the fields, gathered in the summer and crushed in water, makes a cleansing mouth wash.

Chew cinnamon bark, or a clove, if you suspect your breath is not pleasant. A little cinnamon in hot water is a good mouth wash and throat gargle which few people know about for cinnamon is very antiseptic. Cinnamon is pleasant to eat, too, and the bits of bark often used for flavoring can be purchased at any grocer.

Pearl: A young girl of 15, five feet, four inches tall should weigh 123 pounds according to insurance tables. You can allow five, even eight pounds less than that (insurance tables are always too generous in their allowances). But you should be well over 104 pounds. Those dark rings under the eyes and the underweight go together. Nervousness, or perhaps some slight internal trouble such as prolapsus, are the usual causes. Perhaps it is only lack of sleep and worry over your lessons. If I were you I'd see a good doctor and have a complete physical examination. The doctor will give you a tonic.

If you can't do this, take some tonic to make you eat more and try to eat more fats. Take two tablespoonsful of olive oil in grape juice just before dinner and breakfast—you won't know you're taking oil and it won't hurt your appetite. It's the best way I know of to put on flesh for I've done it myself and gained a pound or two pounds a week. But see the doctor if you can.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Old Housekeeper—"I want to ll other women what pleasure I et from keeping a canary bird. believe that there may be many usewives, like me, who would nd a bird company when the ildren are at school and 'hubby' business. I have made a study canaries and this what I have scovered: A long body and ick, smooth plumage are marks a good canary. Males only ng. Coat color varies. Yelw-red Norwich birds owe their ight coats to red pepper in the od (unless it is given generous- at moulting-time, their bright athers will come back dull and le). Birds one year old are st to buy for they are then in ll song. Canaries live anyhere from seven years to 20 alough not very many attain the tter. One of mine lived ten ars. I always let my birds enthe freedom of the diningom in the morning. Leave the cage door open; do not coax or force the bird back into the cage unless absolutely necessary. It is best to let hunger drive him back into it. Use a metal cage with a moveable floor (wood invites vermin). Hang it where it is neither hot nor cold, away from draughts but with plenty of air. Feed regularly. Hemp seed are so fattening that they should be given sparingly. The regular bird seed sold in packages is good if fresh. Empty and clean the seed-cup daily, close the door and put down fresh gravel (red and white) and keep cuttlefish bone suspended in the cage. Daily put in some fresh bit of green (lettuce will do, but chickweed and peppergrass are preferable when attainable)."

Meg—"Last year I had a trying experience with an asphalt stain on my little girl's dress. I tried to wash the stain out with soap—which merely set it hopelessly. Later I learned that the thing to do is to wet the asphalt stain with kerosene, let stand a while, then wash out in either turpentine or alcohol. Tar is treated in a slightly different way. Rub a tar spot with soft grease, let lie several hours, then remove either with gasoline or very hot suds. I thought other Housekeeper Mothers might find this information useful."

This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Mrs. Mattison Boyd Jones, president of Glendale Music club, introduced the artists yesterday afternoon, at the opera recital of Bizet's "Carmen," given before the music department of the Tuesday Afternoon club, under the direction of Madame Gloria Bretherton. "It was a wonderful program," said Mrs. Roberta T. Young, curator of the department. "We had a superb program and a splendid attendance. We feel very fortunate in having Madame Bretherton presenting our opera recitals. In introducing the opera, 'Carmen,' Madame Bretherton read the story. Songs by Carmen were sung by Riffa Leighton, talented dramatic soprano, who resides in Glendale. Miss Josephine Elliott, lyric soprano, sang the part of Michaelena. Gilman Williams' work was unusually fine and versatile. Although a baritone, Mr. Williams not only sang the parts of Escamillo, but also the tenor arias of Don Jose. Narcotic Hospitals to Be Urged by Assembly

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 10.—Erection of hospitals in Northern and Southern California for the treatment of narcotic addicts will be urged in a measure drawn up by Mrs. Annette Abbott Adams, former federal attorney in San Francisco, which will be submitted to the Legislature by Mrs. Anna Saylor, assemblywoman from Berkeley.

Delegates from the San Francisco Federation of Women's clubs, including Dr. Louise B. Eeal. Mrs. Clara Giberson and Mrs. H. B. Harpold today asked support of the measure by Governor Richardson. The governor did not indicate his attitude.

Assemblyman H. E. Dillinger of Placerville supports the measure. "It is hard to believe we are the greatest narcotic users in the world," said Dillinger. "I believe the increase of crime and the increase of drug users are co-related, and some action must be taken."

Gas 'Bootleggers' Are Under Watch by State

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 10.—Gasoline "bootleggers" who avoid the state tax by selling a compound consisting of gasoline and "casing head," a tax exempt fuel, in equal parts, are being investigated by the State Board of Equalization.

According to Chairman Richard E. Collins of the state board, "casing head," a low grade distillate, is exempt from tax only when sold alone. When mixed with gasoline the product is subject to tax.

800 Realty Workers In U.S.C. University Class

More than eight hundred brokers, salesmen, bankers, escrow clerks, title men and property men and property owners are taking the real estate courses in California under the auspices of the California Real Estate association and the University of Southern California, according to a statement today issued by Harrison Lewis, vice-president in charge of the educational work.

Household Articles Taken By Burglar

R. T. Struse, 716 West Arden avenue, reports his house ransacked yesterday afternoon and a number of household articles taken. Sergeant C. P. Blake of the Glendale poilce department investigated, but found no clue to the identity of the burglars.

When a gale struck the home of George Nelson in a small New England town, it ripped off one chimney on his house and blew a hole through the other, leaving a stable shell and in no way disturbing the top layers of brick or other parts of the building.

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, Jan. 10.—So great had been the response to the publicity campaign of the Verdugo Hills post No. 288 that standing room only was left when the curtain rose in the Montrose theatre, where the legionnaires of the La Crescenta valley staged their first vaudeville show to raise money for their building fund. The buddies expect to be able to lay the cornerstone of the post home sometime in February when the mortgage arranged for, through the Montrose State bank will furnish the materials to commence work.

The first number on the program was an organ recital by the theatre organist, Arthur Crowell. The popular Verdugo Hills orchestra composed of the following talent, came next: George L. Merwin, banjo; Lala Brown Justice, piano; Harold Jackson, drums; Milo Giese, saxophone, and William Reed, violinist, and were heartily applauded.

An impressive ceremony was the raising of the colors when Commander A. E. Baron called for a salute. "Ballet Humoresque," with the humor supplied by the local comedian, George Hansen, was a sensation, for those who know this staid business man could not credit the gay young ballerino flitting lightly on "her" toes with fluffy pink skirts, as being Mr. Hansen. "The Cave Man" was his second impersonation which was most realistic, while his clever original Egyptian skit was the hit of the evening. Mr. Hansen was assisted by the following court beauties in correct Egyptian attire: Eilleen Karr, Ruth Kieth, Doris Rose, Gladys Knox, Leoma Crowell and Elizabeth Talbot Martin.

For a scepter King Tush carried a golf stick of the mid iron family. A soul-stirring drama entitled, "Democracy" had many humorous lines, Raymond Jaracki, Frank Staples and Helene Willis being responsible for this hit.

Billy Green, old time circuit man, was a knockout with his clever line of patter. Forbush and Co., a rube skit with Miss Eilleen Karr and Leoma Crowell, singing snappy songs and doing jazzy steps was good. Mr. Forbush mentioned several business firms in Montrose and Verdugo City in his lines.

Buying $50 worth of bricks Thursday Harvey Bissell of Hi-Up ranch was the lucky person winning the gold watch donated by the Montrose Drug Co., to help the boys. Commander A. E. Baron added to the fun and expectancy of the drawing by sending buddies through the audience selling bricks. Miss Eilleen Karr drew the winning number, judges being Messrs. A. F. Hopkins, A. Cox and G. Hall. Instead of announcing the name immediately, Mr. Baron said it was a well known person. Mrs. Bissell accepted the watch on behalf of her husband, who was unable to be present. Miss Gene Weyle gave two Italian readings in costume.

"Lonesome Like," a particularly difficult skit in the Lancanshire dialect of the weavers of the English midlands was a remarkable offering. Sarah Omerod as played by Virginia Liakins Brown was well interpreted. No matter where he studied English Richard Sterling as the very correct young English curate was perfect, while stuttering Sam Horicks carried one from laughter to tears with ease. Raymond Jaracki was responsible for this lout of the mill town, Helene Willis made a most attractive if not too beautiful a mill hand who carried her part with grace. The Hollywood sextet received no more advance notice than was due them, too much cannot be said for the splendid work of this group who received numerous encores. The darky songs were exceptionally good, full of clean humor and wit, their medley of old songs a treat.

The last but by far the finest was the famous Hawaiian baritone Keaumoku Lewis, whose rich voice is always a drawing card for any program. Mr. Lewis accompanied himself on his ukulele, his first number was a native song. Much to the regret of the audience Mr. Lewis sang only two songs, but it is understood he has promised to return at an early date and give more. At 11:15 o'clock the Verdugo Hills orchestra played a snappy march for the gay crowds who expressed satisfaction given in the Montrose theatre.

Requests have been made to repeat the show at an early date.

AT VERDUGO CITY

VERDUGO CITY, Jan. 10.—Harry N. Fowler had the pleasure of listening to friends of the Safety Planning commission in Chicago the other night over a radio installed by William F. Hellman and G. Bernhard of Glendale in the Fowler home recently. Mr. Fowler wired friends to cut in on the air at a certain time, when to the surprise of his guests for whom he had arranged the affair, a voice said "Hello, Harry Fowler, good evening, congratulations on every thing you are doing out there, good-bye."

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Campbell, who have been guests at the Fowler home, will leave shortly for Mexico before starting for their home in Chicago where Dr. Campbell is the general salesmanager of the Eastman Kodak Co.

The usual dance will be held this evening at the Fowler auditorium. Foley's Sciots' band of Glendale will furnish the music.

CANADIANS SEEK NEW RECIPROCITY

Storm Clouds Gather Over Parliament as Tariff With U.S. Arises

OTTAWA, Ontario, Jan. 10.—Twenty-four hours after political leaders in the capital announced that there was little likelihood of any drastic changes being made in the tariff, the opening shot had been fired today in a new move in Canada to seek reciprocity with the United States on lines similar to those of 1911.

Political leaders were reluctant to discuss the situation but admitted that storm clouds are forming over the session of parliament opening February 5.

The advocates of reciprocity gathered ammunition from the ultimatum received from Western Canada announcing the Saskatchewan legislature had given unanimous approval to the establishment of reciprocity with the United States. The legislature also urged substantial reductions in the general customs tariff to bring down the cost of living and an increase of the preferential rate given Great Britain to fifty per cent of the general tariff scale.

SALT LAKE MILLIONAIRE BUYS VERNON BALL TEAM!

WILLIAM LANE NEW OWNER OF CLUB

Walter Johnson Not Involved In Deal; Price Paid Said To Be About $250,000

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—William Lane, Salt Lake mining millionaire, has purchased the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast Baseball league from Ed Maier, it was learned exclusively here today by International News Service. Announcement of the purchase will be made Monday at a meeting of the Pacific Coast league.

Walter Johnson, Washington Americans' star pitcher, who came here to purchase the Vernon club, is not involved in the deal, it was said.

When announcement of Lane's purchase of Vernon is made, the name of the new owner of the Salt Lake club of the Coast circuit will also become known. Salt Lake, owned by Lane, was sold recently to a Chicago business man with extensive interests in the Utah city.

The new Salt Lake owner was said to be closely identified with William Wrigley, millionaire baseball magnate of Chicago.

Lane has been Wrigley's guest for several days at Catalina island, near here, where the deal for the Vernon club purchase was made.

The price paid by Lane was not learned, but was said to have been about $250,000.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The marvelous showing made by Paavo Nurmi in his first appearance on an American track, when he shattered three world's records, has stirred the experts anew to an effort to determine just what qualities the Flying Finn possesses that entitle him to the appelation, "Paavo the Perfect."

Ever since his performance at the Olympic games, explanations have been forthcoming to account for his speed and stamina. His ability has been traced to a diet of dried fish and black bread; to his method of dry rubbing and massage and to various other phases of his life and training. Since he has had the ideas of diet, rubbing, and so on have given place to the study of form and he has been likened to some half dozen of our American stars. His arm action and his method of planting the foot have proven particularly interesting to the critics.

The writer, after seeing him in action at the Madison Square Garden against America's, is inclined to think that all the critics are right—in part. When a man reaches the height of perfection attained by Nurmi, it is because of no less than a half dozen superlative points, each contributing its share.

Nurmi comes of a sturdy, fighting, hard working, patient people. He has lived simply and not been coddled. He has had to work without adventitious aids and has become master of himself. Without question his heart muscles and his nervous system are in admirable condition.

As to his form, his arm action, shoulder motion and foot balance are all particularly adapted to the conservation of energy and his trunk muscles steady him beautifully on his stride and prevent any wobbling, when toward the end of a hard struggle.

If one were forced to state the best one of Nurmi's characteristics, probably the choice would fall on the steadiness of his torso at any pace and at any time in a race. That body held steady and strong, the arms keeping perfect time with the leg motion, and no swaying or wasted effort, is the supreme mark of the greatest of running wonders.

Bantamweight Champ Is Facing Suspension

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Cannon Ball Eddie Martin, world's bantamweight champion, faces suspension as a result of his unsatisfactory showing against Augie Pisano of Brooklyn in a bout there Wednesday night, it was reported today. The boxing commission has summoned both fighters to appear for a hearing next Tuesday. Referee James Crowley stopped the Martin-Pisano fight, the first in which the former engaged as a champion, in the third round, calling it a "no contest."

While cruising in South African waters a motor boat was stopped by a body of fish escaping from a great band of seals that were eating their way into the mass.

Jack Dempsey, the Fighter

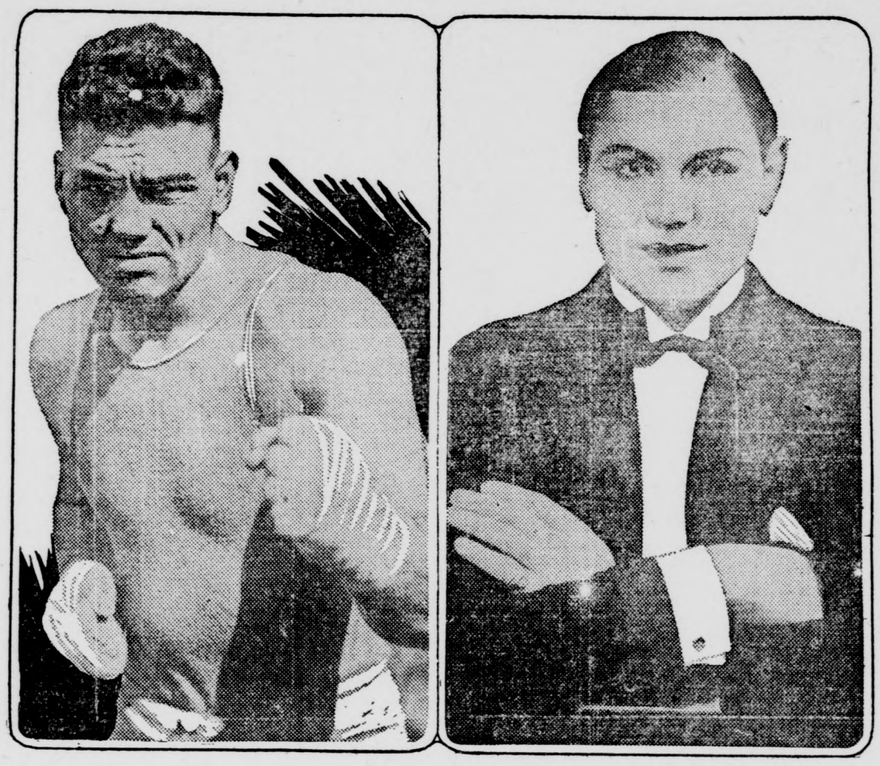
If He's In This Mood

Then We'll Have Some Action

Jack Dempsey, the Movie Star

If He Feels This Way

'T'will Be Dull Year in Boxing



By NORMAN E. BROWN
Written for The Evening News

As the heavyweight champion goes, so goes the fight game.

This is an accepted axiom of the boxing world.

In other words, if the king of them all is active his activities are reflected throughout the game and interest in every class is increased. If he twiddles his thumbs there is little hope of stirring up much interest in the smaller divisions.

So upon Jack Dempsey's shoulders rests the fate of boxing in 1925.

In Dempsey's case this is more true than ever before. Here is one of the most colorful fighters in the realm of fistiania. His work everytime he steps into the ring renews in every red blooded gentleman's breast the love for the game.

Dempsey is a fighting wildcat when he enters the ring. He carries with him into the ring but two things—the hardest body punching machinery ever discovered and the desire to lay his opponent low. A heavyweight champion must be a man-killing demon to be popular. Dempsey is that.

When Dempsey was fighting his way to fame he lived constantly with but one desire—to sock somebody. He socked 'em for nothing to start with. The money was a secondary matter until Jack Kearns taught him the A. B. C.'s of high finance.

Even after winning the title Dempsey harbored a desire to do battle often. Kearns played the game from the box office end.

For sixteen months Dempsey has confined himself to the movie lot. He has donned togs only for hippodrome stuff in connection with his work before the films. He is much more at home in a tuxedo these days than a pair of fighting trunks.

His footwork has been confined mainly to patent-leather stuff on movie location instead of the rosin-covered canvas of the ring.

He hasn't been real peeved once in those sixteen months, unless it has been at an undiplomatic taxi driver.

Has he lost the natural pugnacious, belligerent nature that made him a terror in the ring?

There is easy picking on the shelf for Dempsey. Tommy Gibbons would be willing to take a real beating for another big purse. Harry Wills is waiting patiently for a chance at the champ. Quintin Romero Rojas, much talked-of Chilean heavy, may be a challenger timber by late summer. There is time for one or two other men to come to the front before another Labor Day rolls around.

The opportunities are there.

Will Dempsey fight or fiddle?

If he fights leave considerable space in the year's diary for doings in the boxing world. If he continues his movie work hang some crepe on the page.

Is he in a mean mood or inclined to the lipstick and rouge?

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—What is going to become of the Four Horsemen? Rockne says the boys may tell their plans shortly.

But the talk is that big business is reaching out in competition with football and that the quartet may take charge of an automobile agency in New York.

But if they do this the chances are all will coach at institutions in proximity to New York, just as Haughton did and Roper is doing, with respect to Boston and Philadelphia.

Walsh and Stuhldreher will probably do their coaching as a pair. In this connection there is gossip winging about. In other words, watch Harvard.

There will be no professional football for any one of the famous backs. That game is too small for them. If they stay with football it will be in coaching berths. But, as said, probably in conjunction with business.

Talk that Chick Meehan's application to Syracuse University to have his five year coaching contract cancelled after it had run but a year was due to any bitterness between Meehan and the athletic authorities of the Salt city institution cannot be too emphatically denied.

The truth of the situation is that Meehan received an offer of salary for coaching at New York University that was too tempting to turn down, and hence put the situation before the authorities as a man lays his cards upon the table.

He will not segregate himself absolutely from his alma mater which from time to time will continue to reap the value of his knowledge and his experience. Andreas, the freshan coach, will be appointed in the varsity berth.

BAY CITY BATTLE TO BILLY WELLS

British Welter Champ Wins Easily Over Roach In Eight-Round Bout

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10.—Conducting a relentless attack at close quarters, "Bermondsey" Billy Wells, British welterweight champion, last night easily defeated "Chick" Roach of Vallejo and gave fight fans a boxing lesson in eight rounds.

Opening his attack in the first round, the British champion hammered the head and body of the coast fighter from that on. Roach was game, but was unable to put up an effective defense against Wells' attack. When the referee raised the glove of the victor at the end of the eighth, Roach had cuts under both eyes, his face was cut to ribbons and his body plainly showed the persistence of Wells' hammering. Roach placed some nice blows and was always trying.

California Joe Lynch won the six-round bout with Al Crisp and Sammy Compagne got the decision in six slashing rounds with Bobby Ertle.

Harry Greb Is Winner Over Sage In Detroit

DETROIT, Jan. 10.—Harry Greb, middleweight champion of the world, was awarded the decision over Bob Sage, Detroit, at the end of their ten round bout last night. Sage took the first two rounds by boring in but Greb held the edge from the third round on. Greb was aided by a weight advantage of approximately ten pounds and was permitted to hit and hol dat the same time by Referee Al Foss of Pittsburgh. Billy Peterson, Detroit middleweight, knocked out Frankie Brennan in the fifth round. Joe McKean easily defeated Bobby Swarts.

BOWLING SCORES

The Central Cleaners smothered the Brown Drug bowlers in the first game of a Mercantile league match last night at Recreation alleys, but the pillrollers came back strong in the second game and nosed the Cleaners out of a win in the third contest. Nelson of the winners did the best shooting when he bowled over 215 in the second game.

The Red Feathers failed to get off on the right foot in their Mercantile league match with the Psenner Brothers' crew of electricians, with the result the Red Feathers were shocked out of three games and the match. Fisher of the winners was high score man with 201. Stanley, anchor man of the losers, made the high mark for the Red Feathers with 175-175-175. The scores:

EL MONTE BEATS CLASS C TOSSERS

Fast Practice Game Goes to Visiting Midgets by Score of 17 to 16

Glendale fleaweights dropped their second practice basketball game yesterday, when the El Monte midgets took a hard-fought game in the local gym, 17 to 16.

The Glendale boys started out strong, and at the end of the half were out in front by a margin of 12 to 6, but the visitors shot three baskets and a foul in the third quarter and tossed two more in the last, due to the good work of Tommy Schang, their center.

The Glendale pennyweights rallied in the last stanza, but were too late and only one basket was thrown, that by Randall, guard. The locals were somewhat handicapped by the absence of "Peewee" Reed, star forward, and leading offensive man. Monte Killinger, running guard, starred for the Glendale midgets.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—The papers have been signed, sealed and delivered by which Ruether, the left handed pitcher of the Brooklyn club has been bowed out of the National league to the American.

There is nothing remarkable in Ruether going from Brooklyn to Washington. Players have been transferred from one league to the other ever since there have been dual leagues. But there is a story in the transfer of Ruether.

This player had a gnawing ambition to become a member of the Giants. Furthermore, he thought he was on the high road to become a member of that team. He had had a taste of championship with the Cincinnati Reds, whom he helped to a flag in 1919, and when Cincinnati dropped him because he did not get along well in the atmosphere of Cincinnati, he bragged that he would some day pitch the Giants to a pennant.

Circumstances so shaped themselves that he landed, not in Gotham but across the river in Brooklyn. For one season he made a good showing with the Robins, but the Giant bug stayed with him and one spring he caused a lot of annoyance by stopping off at the Giants' training camp at San Antonio and intimating that he expected to do his conditioning there instead of wih the Brooklyns. Eventually he was persuaded that the best thing he could do was grab the next train for the Brooklyn camp in Florida. But he went with bitterness gnawing at his vitals.

Ruether never pitched Brooklyn to a pennant as he boasted he would do for the Giants, though he had a fine opportunity last season. His 1924 record was pretty poor. Eight games won and thirteen games lost; four out of five lost to the Giants. So, in a way, he helped pitch the Giants to a pennant after all. Had he been as effective as some other left handers against the Giants, he might have won the pennant for Brooklyn.

Ruether's failure againse New York embittered the Brooklyn management more than anything else that happened during his career as a Robin. Waivers were asked on him. The Giants, like all the other National league clubs passed him up.

Washington saved him from the minors by putting in a claim for him. And now he is again a member of a championship team, with a chance to make good.

If Ruether's arm has not gone back on him, if he still has some of the skill he evinced in the west, he may prove just what Washington needs. Left hand assistance to the exent of about fifteen victories out of 25 starts would go a long ways toward winning another pennant for the Senators.

BOXING NOTES

AT NEW YORK—Jack Bernstein, Yonkers junior lightweight, won decision from Tommy O'Brien, Milwaukee, ten rounds; Bushy Graham, Utica, knocked out Nat Pincus of Brooklyn eighth round; Harold Smith, Chicago, won decision from Jackie Snyder, Brooklyn, ten rounds; Johnny Breslin, New York, defeated Bobby Green, New York, six rounds.

AT MINNEAPOLIS—Pete Sarmiento, Manila, outpointed Eddie Anderson, Chicago, ten rounds; Roscoe Hall, Des Moines, shaded Sammy Leonard, Minneapolis, six rounds; Nick Olivia and Mickey Conn, St. Paul, draw, six rounds.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

Joseph L. Kelley

Leaving the 'fillum' industry to go on its 'what's wrong with the movies' way for a day or two, Ye Ed will get back to sports worth playing. For instance—this battle over at Jack Doyle's Vernon arena, next Tuesday night, should be a real ring-worm's delight. A couple of flyweights come together who are little masters of the one-two stuff over the rosined canvas—Jimmy McLarnin and Fidel La Barba. Both will keep eye that isn't closed during melees on Pancho Villa, present holder of flyweight crown and his title. The McLarnin-Barba mixup will be the first ten-round affair at Vernon under new boxing law.

La Barba showed Hollywood ring-worms class on several occasions at the Legion stadium on El Centro. McLarnin has showed boys accustomed to gather around Jack Doyle's banner a like amount of class. Both are faster on canvas than Nurmi is on tanbark track. Both know value of "hit and run" style, which style always assures ring-worms fast and furious entertainment.

This in-fighting business is expected when the big fellows toe the mark but the little fellow substitutes in-work with in-and-out work. Very few mitt artists know what in-fighting is all about, especially the big fellows.

The Fleur de Lys of the French ring, Georges Carpentier, lost to Dempsey because he was given the wrong steer by dapper little Deschamps, his manager, who advised Carp to beat Jack at his own game. There isn't a fighter living who can beat Dempsey at in-fighting. Carpentier never had a chance but he would have stood up longer if he had hit and run.

These ten and twelve round stanzas are going to give some of these alleged fighters in the four round division the surprise of their young lives, if they attempt to bring four-round speed to par with ten-round staying qualities.

'Most any fighter in ordinary condition can dance around for four rounds and feel like midnight party at end of bout but that same fighter would need a stretcher to carry him from ring if he tried all his dance steps for ten rounds. Try it and find out, some of you four-round artists.

It has been some time since fighters in California could step more than four rounds. Half of them fighting around these parts don't know what it means to cover the ten-round distance. They'll find a big difference.

La Barba and McLarnin won't be bothered by this new distance route. They train for any distance even when expecting to go only four rounds. Ten rounds are easier to manipulate than four if fighter uses his head instead of his feet and hands.

Benny Leonard who has done most of his fighting around New York and Jersey where twelve and fifteen-round bouts are common, would be lost if he tried to follow some of the lightweights who have fought around here under the four-round schedule. He couldn't do it and stand up and Benny Leonard is probably one of the best trained fighters and cleanest livers who ever drew on a pair of gloves.

We saw Benny Leonard at Newark, or was it Jersey City, a few years back when he crossed mitts with Rocky Kansas and earlier, with Johnny Dundee, the bouncing Wop of the junior lightweight division and until recently its titleholder. While Kansas and Dundee were fighting heads off to "get" Leonard, Leonard calmly "looked on" and waited for that opening for his deadly right. And at the same time Leonard wasn't "laying down" on the job. He was using his head.

The heady boxer is the one who wins fights. Jim Corbett won more fights with his head than he ever did with his fists. Even a grave digger has to use his head lest he cover himself up.

That's the reason a curtain raiser always gets the ring-worms in good humor. They're so awful funny. All fists and no head makes Jack a dull boy and a bum fighter.

Mickey Walker proved this when he won newspaper decision over Mike McTigue in Jersey this week. Mike is one of hardest hitters among light heavyweights but he doesn't know how to use his bean. Mickey does and did and won the fight, although ten pounds lighter.

Joe Gans, that great little colored flash used his head equally as fast as his feet and hands. Joe went outside of his lightweight class on numerous occasions in order to get fights. And he won them. So it was with Abe Attell, the Jewish featherweight king. Abe was like greased lightning both ways from the middle.

The head counts more than fists when stanzas go above four and five rounds. To fight (and we don't mean Tony Fuente or Fred Fulton waltzing) ten or twelve rounds the fighter has to be in A-1 condition. The best conditioned boxer in business can fight himself out in five rounds unless he uses his noodle.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP by FAIR PLAY

By Special Leased Wire to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Mickey Walker and Michael McTigue, the two rampant Irishmen who came together Wednesday night in the Newark armory, were none the worse today for their twelve round encounter.

If they had been any the worse that fact would have done neither of them any credit. It would have indicated that both possess constitutions with which a winking spring violet would scorn to own and a physical toughness that would not stand comparison with that of a jack rabbit, in fairly good health.

When one thinks of the hundreds and hundreds, say the thousands of pop-eyed sons of Ould Erin who journeyed to Newark from points as remote as the Bronx and Philadelphia to see the greatest combat since Pather Maher and Tom Sharkey slugged and clawed at each other for thirty-five rounds and were then shoved apart and the fight stopped when the satiated fans demanded that the murder cease!

How the Irish fans fought to pay their money to get into the building to see the two Mikes try to kill each other. They were dripping with fighting spirit. The coming struggle between the Irish champions had whetted their fighting spirit to an edge where they even wanted to fight themselves. And some of them did. They fought to pay their money to get in, mind you. After the fight they would have fought to get it back again, if there had not been so many police about.

The writer had this fight doped out long ago. McTigue, having more than 10 pounds in weight on Walker, and in addition a superb defensive boxer, never had any chance of being hurt by the welter champion—who by the way is not such a hitter as most people seem to think he is.

Again, a defensive boxer of McTigue's type seldom has the ability to hand out real punishment, else of course he would not be a defensive fighter.

So the fight worked out the way any sensible person might have doped it had he used his bean. The eleven or twelve thousand fans who fell for the come-all-ye sent out by the Jersey promoters got hardly a thrill out of the battle.

It started with Mickey boring in with his well known vigor and cuffing McTigue right and left. If he had kept up this style of milling throughout the battle something might have happened. But in the second and third rounds, with Walker still very energetic McTigue found how to block his opponent's wallops, or roll his head with the punches, or skip out of danger.

After that Walker's chances were gone. He even seemed to lose his well known fighting spirit. The crowd, all agog for murder, thought Mickey was resting and sat expectantly until the eighth round. When it became apparent that the welter king had nothing more to show the spectators began to boo and stamp their feet and in other ways express disappointment over the fact that one or the other of the two fighters, or both, were not lying prone and lifeless.

And then in the eleventh round, believe it or not, but by the seven stone gray seas of Erin, Misther McTigue became warlike and went after Mickey. He did, he did. And in the eleventh and twelfth rounds he outpointed the lad from Kereghead. Do ye mind that now.

All in all, 'twas a great night for the Irish.

STRANGLER LEWIS' INJURIES SEVERE

Former Mat Champ May Be Lame for Rest of Life, Physicians Report

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 10.—Possibility that Ed "Strangler" Lewis, former world heavyweight wrestling champion, who suffered severe sprains and injuries about the base of his spine when hurled from the ring by Wayne (Big) Munn, new champion, may be lame the rest of his life, was expressed today by Lewis' physicians.

"It is too early to say definitely whether Lewis is injured permanently," said Dr. Terry E. Lilly, who heads the staff of physicians attending the former champion. "More than a week may pass before we ascertain the exact extent of Lewis' hurts. Although it is possible Lewis' condition may suddenly turn for the worse we do not expect the crisis for several days."

The former champion spent a restful night at St. Luke's hospital, where he was taken in an ambulance following the match Thursday night. No complications have developed thus far, physicians said.

Gives Series Scandal Testimony to Public

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—A. J. "Cozy" Dolan, banished coach of the New York Giants' baseball team, has a hazy memory, and three days following the alleged offering of $500 to J. H. Sand, shortstop of the Philadelphia National league team to "ease up," could not recall that he had ever talked with anybody on the subject. This was shown by the verbatim report of the testimony taken in the hearing conducted by Judge K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball.

WIFE'S DEATH DECIDES FOR JURIST

Justice McKenna May Come To California For Rest Of Life

By FRED J. WALKER
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The death of Mrs. McKenna but a few months ago was seen here today as one of the main reasons back of the sudden retirement from the supreme bench of Justice McKenna of California last January 5.

Because of his advanced age—he was 81 last August 10—rumors that he was intending to resign had been current in Washington for many years.

But McKenna, vigorous mentally although of a frail figure, had his own ideas and refused to admit he was giving consideration to an early retirement.

The sudden death of Mrs. McKenna whom he married in San Francisco in 1869 is known to have been a hard blow to the aged jurist.

No Plans Made

Although he continued to attend to his duties, friends spoke of the probability that he would announce his resignation before many months.

"I have made no plans so far for the future. I do not know at this time whether I shall return to California or not," he said today.

"I have made it a life long rule to say nothing about public events as I have seen them because there will then be less to explain.

"Until recent years—you see I have been on the supreme court bench for 27 years—I visited California from time to time but the trip is long and it has been some time since I last saw it."

McKenna indicated he would remain in Washington for several months before deciding, if at all, whether he would return to California, his home.

Birmingham Has Last Laugh on Annexation

BIRMINGHAM, Mich., Jan. 10.—The village of Birmingham believes it is having the last laugh in its struggles with Lakeview, a suburb, to induce the community to accept annexation to Birmingham. The suburb recently voted down an annexation proposition, although Birmingham for some time has sought to bring about such a step.

Now the Birmingham village commission has voted to cut off the Lakeview water supply next spring unless the suburb petitions for and votes favorably upon another annexation proposal by next April. Lakeview has been supplied with water by the village.

British Golf Players Spend Large Fortune

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Britain's one million golfers spend $250,000,000 annually on the ancient Scottish game, it has been estimated.

Golfers spend $40,000,000 annually in fees and club dues and $30,000,000 more for golf balls and other supplies.

Caddies, railway and motor-car traveling, special golfing clothes, instructional fees and prizes cost the enormous sum of $180,000,000 annually, it is figured.

Flirts With Amazon, Knocked Out, Jailed

BERKELEY, Jan. 10.—Edward Lewis, thirty, was sentenced to six months in jail because he attempted to flirt with the athletic wife of a Berkeley policeman.

Mrs. Bernice Wilson, former University of California co-ed and now assistant swimming instructor, said she was accosted by Lewis, who invited her to "take a walk." Mrs. Wilson countered with a stiff right to the chin, and while Lewis was still groggy from the blow, she summoned her husband, Patrolman O. W. Wilson.

Girder Cuts Gas Bag, Frees Lots of Helium

SCOTT LIELD, Ill., Jan. 10.—Helium gas valued at $17,000 escaped, with an explosision-like report here, from the United States army dirigible TC-5 when the huge bag was pierced by a steel girder on the outside of the hangar from which the ship had been removed preparatory to a flight to Springfield, Ill.

No one was injured seriously, several of the ground crew receiving scratches, it was reported.

KEINHOLZ RESIGNS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—Eddie Keinholz has resigned as football coach of Santa Clara university, it was learned on the highest authority here today. Adam Walsh, captain and center of the Notre Dame football team, and Charles Erb, former University of California player and 1924 coach of Nevada university, were under consideration to succeed Keinholz, and it was said Walsh would probably be named.

TOURIST RUSH RIVALS '49 GOLD DAYS

California And Florida In Midst Of Unprecedented Travelers' Influx

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—A rush to California and Florida is now on which rivals the gold excitement of '49. But the present rush has for its object the spending of gold as much as its acquisition.

Over 1,000,000 visitors will go to South Carolina, Georgia and Florida this winter, of whom 90 per cent will reach Florida. This figure is based on the estimates of seven chambers of commerce at tourist centers in the southwest whose forecasts have been carefully guarded against over-enthusiasm. Those million people will spend on an average $200 each. That individual expenditure sounds small, although it aggregates $200,000,000 but it must be remembered that, while the tourists stay from a week to four months, thousands of them are "tin can" tourists, job hunters, indigent health seekers and adventurers.

California will have a far greater number of visitors within her borders. San Francisco had 350,000 tourists attracted there by conventions last year and they spent $14,000,000. Los Angeles will surely have in the neighborhood of 1,750,000 guests. San Diego will probably entertain over a third of a million. Many are being attracted by the "deviltries" of near-by Tia Juana. Santa Barbara and other points will come in for a good share of the tourist business. The length of stay in California probably is shorter than in Florida but the rate of expenditure appears to be higher.

Tourists' Talk Helps

This money is merely a part of the advantages resulting from the tourist business. Many who come to spend remain to invest and live permanently while the walking and talking advertisements furnished by returned tourists undoubtedly have a definite monetary value for these two states.

In one respect at least, the southeast and the southwest have followed radically different plans in attracting visitors. Last fall Florida voted for inclusion in the state constitution of a perpetual prohibition against any form of income or inheritance taxation.

Retired capitalists and wealthy men from other states have rushed to Florida. Used to making the most of their opportunities, they have begun to make the climate and the attractions of Florida as a winter playground, pay them. Buildings are springing up like mushrooms and sleepy cross road towns are becoming thriving cities. In 1920 there were only six cities in Florida with more than 10,000 inhabitants. Now there are above twenty.

California Planning

California, on the other hand, is waiting for the legislature to put the finishing touches on legislation which will enable the state to tax non-residents whether they are in the state for a brief period or for a long time. The constitution is expected to make it possible to tax any one venturing across the state line on anything taxable possessed by such a person either there or elsewhere. This will be done under a constitutional amendment passed last November providing for "the "assessment, levy and collection of taxes upon all notes, debentures, shares, capital stock, bonds, solvent credits or mortgages now exempt from taxation under the constitution."

While this measure was passed by a popular vote, it is less popular now, for the inhabitants of California fear it may eventually cut down the number of tourists although they do not expect that result in the immediate future.

Boom Uncertain

Nobody can tell how long the "boom" will last. In summer Florida presents a rather different picture, although each year it is retaining more of its winter visitors as all the year round inhabitants. California is almost as much sought in other seasons as in winter and in summer the other sections of the Pacific coast have a chance to reap their harvest which is no mean one.

Both Florida and California have much to offer residents in the way of agricultural and business opportunity. In case of both of them real estate operations and developments have yielded enormous fortunes. Demand for men in some lines has been so strong from Florida that Birmingham and Atlanta have been drawn upon heavily. California is finding it easy to take the workers from all over the country as she needs them.

Spend $1500 to Move 80-Foot Tree 2 Miles

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—One of the four oldest palm trees in California standing more than eighty feet high and weighing more than 60,000 pounds, has been moved two miles and replanted in a garden. The work cost more than $1500.

The tree was brought to California from Sinaloa, Mexico, by the old mission padres, according to E. Clement Wilson, the purchaser.

WAR SEQUEL HITS CHINESE PUPILS

Students From Orient at Universtiy Discover Funds Curtailed

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 10.—Chinese students at the University of Michigan here are finding an aftermath to the Chinese war in curtailment of funds provided for their education.

In some instances checks from scholarships, such as that established by Tsing Hua College from the indemnity fund returned at the close of the Boxer rebellion by the United States, have been delayed for more than a month and students forced to seek odd jobs to meet their current expenses.

Ninety Chinese are enrolled in the university. Of this number fifteen are directly dependent upon scholarships furnished from their native land. The Tsing Hua College scholarships furnish $80 a month to each student.

Students holding "provincial scholarships" from districts where the war has been in progress have been entirely cut off from sources of revenue.

Since the war of Chinese hostilities students have withdrawn practically all of a $200 reserve fund maintained by the Campus Chinese club, Chenk S. Cheung, Canton, China, club said.

TICKET SALE FOR CHORUS IS OPEN

Rhondda Welsh Singers to Appear at High School On January 26

The ticket sale has opened and many reservations already made for the Rhondda singers, who will appear at Broadway High school auditorium under the auspices of the Kiwanis club, on Monday January 26. Tickets are on sale at Roberts & Echols drug store, D. L. Gregg hardware store and Valley Mortgage Co.

The superiority of this choir lies in a combination of details, lack of any one of which would detract, even though ever so slightly, from the beauty of the ensemble, but possession of all of them places them in a unique position. Each is a picked voice; nearly all the choristers are, in fact, soloists, and long training and association have developed something in the nature of timbre or tone which blends beautifully.

Prof. Tomas Morgan is the conductor and Prof. Emlyn Jones, pipe organist and piano soloist. This is the third American and Canadian tour of the company and in all of their appearances critics have been unstinting in their praise.

Road Salesmen Report Business Outlook Good

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 10.—Orders received from traveling men who have returned to the road since the holidays are accepted by wholesalers as pointing to good business for the next few months. This is especially true of dry goods, notions, hardware, agricultural implements and furniture. Dry goods sales have increased through fairly large purchases by Mexican buyers. Central American business in most lines is fairly good.

Assemblyman Merriam Greets State Realtors

The California Real Estate association was the recipient of a communication from Frank F. Merriam, assemblyman and speaker extending holiday greetings. Mr. Merriam is a member of the state association and engages in the real estate business in Long Beach. Two years ago he was speaker of the assembly. He said "Best wishes to you for the success of your organization with cordial holiday greetings."

State's Death Rate Is Taking Rapid Strides

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 10.—During January, February and March the death toll in California is 20 per cent higher than in the succeeding three months and 30 per cent in excess of the mortality figures for August, September and November, it was disclosed today by statistics compiled by the state board of health for the twelve-year period ending December, 1924. The Grim Reaper gathers his largest harvest in January, with a death rate of 15.7 per thousand, as compared with September, when the mortality ratio is but 11.6 per thousand, the lowest rate in the twelve-month period.

"Diseases of the respiratory system invariably are the most prevalent during the first three months of any year," said Dr. A. F. Gillihan of the state board. "Such ailments as pneumonia, influenza, tonsilitis and common colds are deadliest at this time of the year. These afflictions are all contagious. They may result from undernourishment or ill balanced diet, from undue exposure to wet and cold, from over-fatigue or close confinement in overheated and poorly ventilated living rooms or offices. With this knowledge in hand it should not be difficult to prevent a vast amount of sickness during the next three months. The application of common sense to everyday living habits is the best preventive of these ills which exact such a heavy death toll during the early months of the year."

BILLS TOSSED FREELY INTO HOPPER

Law-Makers Settle Down To Business Routine After Labor Okay

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service.
Special to The Evening News.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 10.—While the child labor amendment resolution was ratified after several strategic moves and political speeches, in the Assembly the senators started tossing bills and resolutions into the hopper.

Among the many measures sought is a revision of the state insurance laws by George Squires, state commissioner, who had Senator Harry Chamberlain of Los Angeles, introduce eighteen new acts and amendments to the present code.

Other senators brought forth their pet measures, which this writer has previously mentioned, and by Monday the Assembly will be functioning under routine. Speaker Frank Merriam is faced with the herculean task of naming satisfactory committeee chairmen, as well as appointing to membership those who seek to serve.

Frisco's Attitude

First intimation of San Francisco's attitude toward reapportionment was expressed by Assemblyman Albert Rosenshine speaking before the Sacramento Rotary club. He expressed as his belief that reapportionment, under the constitution, would injure good government by giving control of both houses of the legislature to the cities.

Attorney Rosenshine also expressed his belief that the theory of taxation in the state, wherein discrimination was made between the corporate and non-corporate interests, is wrong in that there is no basis for comparative valuations.

Departments Scored

He scored state departments for padding their demands for funds, and likewise he excoriated the finance departments purposely cutting estimated revenues in their respective reports to the state legislature, which he compared with a board of directors of a business institution.

According to Cadet Taylor, senator from Pomona, there will be conferences held early next week of those solons who come from districts where forest fires have ravaged their brush and timber land and watersheds. It is proposed to advise with the state forester and prepare a single bill to provide for fire prevention.

Wife Says Hubby Liked Papa Better Than Her

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—Declaring her husband persisted in reading his paper and ignoring her when he was home, Frances A. Klopak filed suit for divorce against Louis Klopak. When she remonstrated with him for his failure to converse with her, he would throw down his paper and walk out, saying, "You can talk to yourself," Mrs. Klopak alleged.

The wife also declared her husband told her she couldn't cook good enough to suit him and that he preferred to eat at his mother's. Another act of cruelty set up in the complaint was that Klopak would ring his wife on the telephone and then refuse to reply when she answered the call.
